Former Cleveland Councilman Slain, Woman Is Hunted

William E. "Rarin' Bill" Potter, Was To Have Faced Perjury Trial Today

DEATH CREATES BIG SENSATION

Believe Man Implicated In Land Graft Was Shot To Silence Him

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, Feb. 9.—Sensationalism which dotted the probe of the notorious Cleveland land graft deals of 1929, was surpassed here today as detectives began a thorough investigation into the brutal slaying of William E. (Rarin' Bill) Potter, former city councilman and a central figure in the land scandal.

Potter, murdered on the eve of the re-opening of another quiz resulting from the graft deals, was found dead in an apartment in Northeast Cleveland. He was to have appeared in common pleas court today to stand trial on charges of perjury.

Facts Were Feared.
The former powerful Republican councilman, killed by a steel-jacketed bullet and a blow that ripped open one side of his skull, had been "put on the spot" in the belief of detectives and County Prosecutor Ray T. Miller.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Mrs. Jennie Buxton of this city lays claim to seeing the first robin of the year. Mrs. Buxton sighted the red-breasted harbingers of spring while visiting at the home of her sister, Miss Effie Means of East New Castle on February 3.

Pa. News awoke this morning to gaze out the window on one of those old-fashioned "sugar" snows. The streets were pretty sloppy downtown, but the snow stayed on the ground well in the residential districts, and some beautiful sightings were painted by mother nature.

New Castle Motor Club members are going to make "whooper" to-morrow night. It is the occasion of their annual meeting, which is always an enjoyable occasion, and most of the members expect to attend and hear about the new things in store for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Perrott of Edgewood avenue have received a box of oranges from Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davis who are wintering in Florida. The oranges are from the grove near where Mr. and Mrs. Davis are living.

It was just a short time after the first report had been made last night of a flock of wild geese flying north over the city—a sure sign of an early spring—that snow started falling, and this morning the city looked anything but spring-like.

Snow shovels were in use on many streets of the city this morning. It took a snow shovel to clean the sidewalks of the heavy snow. On some

Flock Of Wild Geese Fly North Over City

What may be termed as a real sign of spring was noted Sunday evening about nine o'clock by H. C. Cook and Samuel Fada in the vicinity of the New Castle Works on the Carnegie Steel Company. They saw and heard a large flock of wild geese enroute north over the city from their winter haunts in the

TEN ADRIFT ON ICE RESCUED BY GUARD

(International News Service)
BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 9.—The seven coast guardsmen and three fishermen who were marooned in slushy pieces of floating ice in Lake Erie, today were rescued by the coastguard.

Three rescuing parties of coastguardsmen made a six mile trek across smooth ice pushing a heavy skiff, and then covered a short gap of clear water between the ice shelf and the slushy floe to bring the 10 men to safety.

Seventeen other fishermen were rescued by the coastguard Sunday, after they had spent 32 hours adrift on the ice field.

After the rescue of these 17, three remaining fishermen and the seven coastguardsmen were caught when the floe drifted a mile out into the lake.

These 10 when saved this morning were brought to shore in good health, according to surfrman Rischel, who was among those stranded since last night.

State Highways Are Dangerous, Warn Motorists

Snow, Rain And Sleet Makes Highways Dangerous For Travel

MOTORISTS ASKED TO USE PRECAUTION

(International News Service)
Snowstorms over the week-end, followed in many localities by rain and sleet, turned Pennsylvania highways into lanes of danger which called from the state highway department, officials said today, the most unusual safety efforts of the winter.

Warnings of dangerous road conditions were flashed to motorists of the state by newspaper, radio and over the state police teletype system, highway officials said, while 500 trucks out in various sections of the state, spreading ashes and cinders on bad curves and dangerous grades.

"Worst conditions of the winter" prevailed upon the highways of the state over the week end, highway officials said.

In the Harrisburg region, one man was killed and 16 persons were injured in motor accidents caused by perilous driving conditions, causing mishaps and other accidents caused by slippery pavements.

Clayton Erb, 50, of Pequea, Lancaster county, was killed at Selinsgrove when his automobile skidded and crashed into a bus. Erb's death was the only one reported in the central region early today as a result of dangerous driving conditions.

Snow shovels were in use on many streets of the city this morning. It took a snow shovel to clean the sidewalks of the heavy snow. On some

Church Program Opens City's Observance Of Scouts' Anniversary

Special Exercises Occur Sunday Night In St. Paul's Lutheran

SCOUTS VOTING ON CANDIDATES TODAY

Celebrating Scouting's "Coming-Of-Age"—Nation Wide Program

"Scout Anniversary Week" was inaugurated in a fitting and colorful manner here last night when Boy Scouts of a score or more of the city's troops assembled for a special worship service in the auditorium of the St. Paul's Lutheran church, Grant street.

The exercises of the evening, participated in largely by the membership of the St. Paul's troop, opened a gala week's observance of the 21st anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scout movement.

Full Week Ahead
Today and on Tuesday, and throughout the remainder of the week, programs of different types will be sponsored by the Scouts. Ellwood City and the smaller boroughs of the county are celebrating simultaneously.

Scoutmaster John R. Dunfee, the scoutmaster of the St. Paul's troop, No. 21, presided over the program of last night. The Rev. A. M. Stump, pastor of the church, delivered the sermon on the appropriate theme, "A Scout Is Reverent."

The message emphasized the importance of the 12th Boy Scout law.

Special ceremonies attended the service, with the Scouts taking the leading part. The St. Paul's troop, led behind an American and church flag, entered the auditorium just as Scoutmaster Sidney L. Smith of the First Christian church troop finished reading the foreword, entitled "God Give Us Men."

At this point the Scouts and scouters (Scout leaders) repeated the pledge of allegiance to the American flag.

Dr. C. J. Williamson, new president of the county council, presided.

Compromise Food Relief Bill Is Given To Senate

Senate Approval Of Bill Will Spell Enactment, House All Set

FEW INSURGENTS ENTER PROTESTS

Republican-Democratic Cooperation Alliance Sets $20,000,000 Sum

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Charged with abandoning hungry millions of urban unemployed, the newly revived Republican-Democratic cooperation alliance today sought senate approval of the $20,000,000 compromise food loan bill for relief of drought areas.

An administration-controlled house was certain to approve it if the senate writes it into the interior department appropriation bill. The compromise also has the support of President Hoover, so that it will become law if it passes the senate, where the alliance leaders predicted victory.

Insurgents Protest.
A handful of Insurgents in both parties meanwhile protested the compromise would carry no relief for starving thousands in the cities. They charged the administration, aided by Democratic leaders from the drought states, were deliberately turning their backs on suffering in cities to provide a "happ-hazard, vague and uncertain" help for starving farmers in the dry areas.

The protesting Insurgents probably will go down to defeat in any effort to block the compromise or extend its provisions to cover urban unemployed. For one thing the parliamentary situation will force them to reject the interior department conference report before they can amend the relief plan. This would require a majority vote of the senate and the alliance leaders declared an overwhelming majority favored the compromise.

As approved by the Alliance leaders and adopted by the house and senate conferees, the new relief plan was substituted for the original senate provision of $25,000,000 to the American Red Cross. The Insurgents may attempt to prevent this substitution, but again they will require a majority vote—which the alliance leaders predicted they would win.

Two Gunmen Are Shot To Death

Chicago Police Surprise Gunmen In Robbery—One Man Is Captured

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Trapped by two policemen while robbing a cigar store, two gunmen were shot and killed today and a third was captured following a revolver battle.

One of the slain men was partially identified as John Kelly, 28, but the other victim remained unidentified. The captured man was Edward Wolf, an ex-convict.

Two police sergeants saw the trio climbing into the store from a hole in the ceiling and opened fire through the door. The men fled through a rear door and when they failed to halt another burst of gunfire brought two of them down. A bullet had pierced the heart of each.

Wolf, the third member of the gang, attempted to flee, but was captured and disarmed. He refused to name his two companions when grilled by police.

Man Kills Wife; Then Suicides

Wife Is Beaten To Death, Man Kills Self With Dynamite Charge

FREQUENT FIGHTS LED TO TRAGEDY

(International News Service)
INDIANA, Pa., Feb. 9.—Brutal murder and a lightning-like suicide were disclosed today with the finding of the mangled bodies of Frank Brodsky and his wife, Agnes, both 43, in the dynamited Brodsky home at Coy, a mining settlement near Homer City.

Mrs. Brodsky's battered body was found in the kitchen of the little home. A bloodstained pick handle lay nearby. Other bloodstains on the back porch led to the belief that Brodsky had seized his wife on the porch, attacked her with the pick handle and dragged her back into the kitchen of the home.

According to a police reconstruction of the tragedy, after killing his wife Brodsky had descended into the hatch-hole cellar of the house, directly under the living room, fastened a half dozen sticks of dynamite into an improvised infernal machine, lighted a fuse and lay down on the dynamite to wait for death.

His body was mangled practically beyond recognition by the resultant blast, although the house itself suffered only slightly from the explosion.

The marital life of the Brodskys had been marked by frequent quarrels in recent weeks, police said. It is believed that Mrs. Brodsky was fleeing from the home when her husband crushed her. Her head had been crushed to a pulp by heavy blows from the pick handle.

It's a cinch to laugh when the skies are bright, and the world is your oyster shell, when the clouds are with you and cheer you on, and the streets resound to their yell. It's a cinch I say to be cheerful then, when all the world is a song, but the testing time is when skies are dark, and the world believes you are wrong. It marks the difference between a champ and a dud with a yellow streak; it marks the difference between the strong and the ones who you know are weak. It's a cinch to laugh when the skies are bright, but to smile when the skies are gray, denotes the man with a firm backbone, it's forty one today.

Officials of a local plumbing concern have been requested to appear before the city plumbing board Friday.

It was charged by Inspector Harold Dunlap today that literature "encouraged" violation of the plumbing code.

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, yellow skin, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Jimmy Swack was learning to be a machinist in the shop of Bill Wolke, which stood in the rear of the house in which Bill and his family lived. Young Jimmy struck up an acquaintance with Sammy, Bill's young son, and in time the two boys became friendly.

Bill Wolke and his wife noticed small amounts of money missing from the cash drawer of the shop and they set a few traps. After waiting a while they found their son pilfering the cash drawer. When they asked him about it he said that he had been taking the money for Jimmy, who had asked him to do it for him. Bill had Jimmy arrested for larceny.

Here's a veteran police officer at Lorain, Ohio, who estimates that he has smoked 181,000 cigars during fifty years. He says that he gets away with an average of eight a day. The officer is George Jennings. Wonder if anyone will put in a claim for his laurels?

More than half as much precipitation in the form of rain and snow has been noted in the last two days, as fell all last month. There was six-six hundredths of an inch of precipitation from Saturday morning to Monday morning, while all last month, the precipitation only totaled 1.16 inches. Over two inches of snow fell this morning before nine o'clock, and a large part of it melted.

Hymns of praise were also sung, after which the Scripture reading and sermon of Rev. Stump followed.

All over the country last night, in churches and in gatherings of a similar kind, Scouts renewed their oath of allegiance. The local boys did the same towards the close of the special program, under the leadership of Scout Commissioner Ralph F. Davis.

The Scout benediction followed the renewal of the oath, and the closing prayer was pronounced by Rev. Stump.

Are Voting Today
All over the city and county today, in the different schools of the district, Boy Scouts are balloting for the Scout officials who will rule the city and county for an hour on Lincoln's birthday. The boy-rule idea is another anniversary feature. Nationally, today is being observed as "School Day."

Tomorrow is "Parent Institution Day" and fathers and mothers of the boys will attend the regular meetings of various troops. Wednesday will be "International Day." Thursday, "Citizens' Day," the Scouts will sit at the helm of the local government.

One of the outstanding events scheduled for the week is the camp reunion dinner to be held in the First Presbyterian church dining room on Friday evening. Troops in New Castle, New Wilmington and New Bedford will send delegations that night.

Ellwood City Scouts, together with Wampum and other southern district troops, will stage a camp reunion festival at the First M. E. church there on the same evening. The week's program will close next Saturday, "Outdoor Day," when troops are expected to take afternoon hikes in the woods and outings of this sort.

STAR LORE PERIOD, MASS AND REFLECT- ING POWER OF PLUTO, THE NEW PLANET

By Arthur Dev. Carpenter.

Announcement of the greatest interest concerning the most recent research work at Mount Wilson observatory on the new planet, Pluto has just been made. Pluto's period of revolution around the sun is now computed to be 247.69 years. The first determination of Pluto's mass (amount of matter) has been made. It is found to be comparable with that of the earth's, coming out approximately 1.08 times that of the earth's. Pluto's mass is sufficient to exert a considerable influence upon the other planets. It is shown that Pluto reflects a little more light than would Mars at that same distance. Pluto definitely takes its place among the major planets.

FORMER CLEVELAND COUNCILMAN SLAIN, WOMAN IS HUNTED

the facts of the famous Coit Street-St. Clair playground scandal in which Coit Street was responsible for the death of the hands of an assassin, Miller declared.

A blonde woman, who had been seen in the apartment with a man answering to the description of Potter, was the object of an intensive police search today. It was believed by police that the woman was the actual slayer or had been used as a lure by the person or persons who plotted the death of Potter.

Dead Four Days.

Coroner A. J. Pearson, rendering his verdict of murder, stated that the man had been dead about four days. Potter left his own home last Tuesday, telling his wife that he was "going out of town." The man believed to have been Potter, and the blonde woman, were seen in the apartment last Tuesday by neighbors.

Police were called to the apartment of Mrs. Fred C. Laub, wife of the apartment custodian, who stated she believed a man had committed suicide in Suite 4, where Potter's body was found. The light in the apartment had been burning continuously for the past four days, she said.

Potter's body was found lying on aavenport, in full view of the doorway leading to the hallway. No weapon could be found in the apartment by police. One of the bullets intended for Potter was discovered imbedded in the wall back of the davenport.

Arrest Two Suspects
CLEVELAND, Feb. 9.—A 23-year-old blonde woman and her husband were arrested by police here this afternoon as suspects in the slaying of William E. (Barrie) Potter, 45, former city councilman and central figure in the sensational playground graft scandal.

The pair was apprehended in an East Side house and rushed to the detective bureau for questioning. In the house police said they found a .38-caliber revolver, containing the same type of bullets which were used to kill Potter, in the house.

The body of the fourth victim, still unidentified, was found in the ruins of the Carnation farms stable, crushed against the wall, apparently in an attempt to escape; he was burned beyond recognition.

The number of men to lose their lives is problematical. Dozens of hostlers were asleep in the stables when the fire started; others who rushed into the burning buildings in an attempt to save valuable horses may have died.

BOY SCOUT ANNIVERSARY

BOY SCOUTS of New Castle, Ellwood City, and Lawrence county, yesterday began a week's program that is being carried out in observance of the 21st birthday of scouting in the United States. Church services last night were attended by scouts in a body, and in New Castle the program of the week includes the operation of the city government for an hour on Thursday. The scouts are electing their officials at elections today.

The program of the week is typical of the Boy Scout work, and will have many interesting features for the lads who are a part of this great movement. With the observance of the 21st anniversary, attention of the public naturally turns to some of the facts in connection with the Boy Scout movement in the nation during these years.

A summary shows that during the 21 years of scouting, up to December 31, 1930, there have been 4,278,337 different boys enrolled as scouts. Quite as remarkable is the fact that during that period a total of 964,982 men have been registered for volunteer service. This is a showing that speaks most eloquently of the stability and scope of this movement toward better citizenship and sturdy character, which scouting develops.

Chief Scout Executive James E. West, from national headquarters, New York, sends out the following summary of the achievements during the past year:

"President Hoover launches Forward Movement and Development Program at dinner commemorating 20th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America, held at Washington, D. C., March 10, and attended by cabinet officers. President Hoover appealed to the nation on behalf of the Boy Scouts of America and formally inaugurated a campaign for the 10 Million Dollar Development Fund. Scout program formally launched, about 5,000 Cub Scouts at end of 1930. Scouts participated in Oregon Trail Memorial Centennial. Paul A. Siple, the Erie Scout who accompanied Admiral Byrd to the Antarctic, returned. Chief Scout Executive served as chairman of the Committee on Youth Outside the Home and School, of President Hoover's White House Conference on Child Health and Protection. Notwithstanding the general business depression, new records were made in program activities and in membership. A record number of boys, 23,273, were taught to swim at Boy Scout camps. An increase of about five per cent. in Scout campers was reported, so that nearly 400,000 boys had camp experience during the year. There was an increase of 50 per cent. in registered Sea Scouts. Scout circuses, merit badge exhibits, expositions, rallies, and other gatherings increased in like number and scope. Over 163 colleges conducted Scouting Courses and more than 50,000 Scout leaders took a course in the Five-Year Training Program. Membership during the year 1,257,827 Scouts and Scouters; net membership, December 31, 865,465 Scouts and Scouters."

The year 1931 promises to be the greatest in scout history, both in Lawrence county and nationally.

VIRGINIA'S DILEMMA

Virginia wants industrial growth but without the sacrifice of old Virginia and its traditions. Her people want the wealth and prosperity that follow industrialization, but want it without the cost of their cherished colonial atmosphere, quiet leisure and simplicity of living. They would eat their cake and have it too.

This is an ideal difficult to fulfill. Industry is interested primarily in profits, and where traditions conflict with profits traditions are likely to suffer. Industrial growth is a juggernaut that crushes and obliterates all that stands in its way.

Factories provide employment, boost wages, enhance real estate values, attract labor, promote business and concentrate trade. On the other side of the ledger are the smoke and noise they cause, social complications rising out of the introduction of new racial lines and multiplication of the classes, a changing community psychology, the submerging of the agrarian by the industrial.

No community has ever succeeded in separating the two as some Southern towns draw the color line with their segregated Jim-towns. When a town goes industrial the change is written all over its face. The new smoke stacks are but symbols of a new transformation.

So, if Virginia would preserve her sleepy, peaceful towns with their broad verandas and spacious grounds and squat architecture, let her not try to be both Yankee and Rebel.

NEW ZEALAND'S QUAKE

Distressed by her own drought sufferers and unemployed, the United States yet asks what it can do for the relief of the victims of the earthquake in New Zealand. Our misfortunes have brought hunger, homelessness and anxiety, but to New Zealand has come death and destruction in company with the other three.

Although hardly to be compared in destructiveness with the Japanese temblor of 1923 or the Italian quake of 1930, the Napier quake takes rank among the major seismic disturbances of the time. It was accompanied by heavy loss of life and property damage running into the millions of dollars.

The stricken area is crushed by the catastrophe, which came at a time when all Australasia is heavily hit by business depression and unprepared for such a blow.

Mankind seemingly must reckon on earthquakes as part and parcel of its existence. They strike without notice and seem to be no respecter of persons and places. Areas long believed out of the temblor circle have, in recent years, been shaken with varying degrees of severity.

Science advances many theories but apparently knows very little about earthquakes and their causes. Upon one thing all scientists and lay minds agree, and that is that Mother Earth is not as stable as her children would like her to be.

Most of us would rather have what we want than be happy.

Spinach farmers are making money and enemies of every husband and child.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 5:27. Sun rises tomorrow 7:02.

Congressman Fish of New York would have the Communist name left off the ballot. Why worry about that, no one ever heard of them being elected to any office, anyhow.

An east side man and his wife have been at it again. The other evening she said, "Just think, one-half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives."

"Never mind, my love," he replied, "that isn't your fault." Oh, wham de doodle wham.

A lot of members of congress are declared to be angry at one another when they are ready to engage in fistfights at any moment. Now that brings to mind a good idea on raising money to run the government.

A Londoner took a visiting American to see "Hamlet." When it was over and they were moving out, the host asked: "Well, did you like it?"

"Oh, yeh. It's pretty good. But you're sure behind the times here. I saw that in New York four years ago."

T. R. Stephenson had a joyous time last week, bacheling while his son and family were visiting in Oklahoma. One morning the dog dumped over the coffee pot, so T. A dish towel is a prime necessity in every well-ordered household, so he tore off a

"Well," said he, "I have been making calculations and I find that my silver wedding will come on Saturday evening and that would never do as that is the evening I have to go to lodge."

SHE REMEMBERED TO SAY
THANK YOU

I can't get a young woman out of my mind. A young woman I never saw, never heard anything about until after she was dead.

And all I know about her is what she said, just as she was dying. Just seven words, but they seem to be the finest of all the dying words I've ever heard. So, though I don't know much about her I'm sure I know enough.

She and some of her family and some friends went forth in a launch into the ocean when the waves were high and troublesome, and they got into difficulties. Two boys on the shore saw their trouble and set out in a little boat to save them, as they struggled in the stormy waters. The boys' boat was upset and they, too, were soon in trouble, but they did the best they could. One boy took this young woman by the arm and started swimming with her to the shore. A wave threw the boy against a rock and hurt his arm and tore the girl away; he could not help her any longer and he could barely save himself.

But he said afterwards that she smiled at him through her pain and said: "Thank you for trying to save me." It was the end, and she knew it. She was lost with the shore so near and she might easily have thought only of herself and pitied herself and pleaded desperately for rescue. But she remembered that a stranger had tried to save her and though he had failed she owed him thanks, even in the terrible face of death. She had always said thank you—and this was not time for forgetting her manners. So she said: "Thank you for trying to save me," and turned her pale face away into a pitiless green wave and has been seen no more.

I'm selfishly grateful to that brave young woman. And I'd thank her if I could for her politeness, for remembering to say thank you for a favor. Somehow, it seems to me, she saved the faces of all of us with those seven courteous words. By the way she died, she lifted plain living to the mountain tops and made it seem worthy. She died weeks ago, and I haven't been able to get her out of my mind. Nor so I want to forget her. I want to remember those seven words as long as I live, and be reminded of them again and again.

Who doesn't want to feel that way about a deed so simple and so perfect?

DON'T BE AFRAID TO HELP!

All your life you have wanted to do something fine for a certain person, but you have been too afraid to make your desires known. Affectionate in disposition, fearful of being misunderstood, you are dumb in the presence of those whom you like best.

Recently you had the experience of seeing another trying to accomplish a certain thing which you knew he was not going at in a way to succeed.

If he had asked your aid you might have helped materially and gladly.

But you saw his efforts go to naught because you were afraid to approach him intimately enough to give advice or render service.

As a child you saw a person drop an article and were too shy to call out to a stranger that he had lost something so you kept the article.

Thereafter you felt yourself a thief because you were morbidly shy about taking the first step or making the first move to call the attention of a stranger.

Rare to find a child nowadays that is so shy and backward to be sure.

But the truth is that if you want to help others sincerely enough you can forget yourself in your desire to do good and that's the secret of a kind heart.

When self comes first in your thought, your spirit lacks something.

LOSSES
What are losses anyway?

Where's the man can truly say Loss of money which he had Is inevitably bad?

Poor it leaves the purse, but oh, It may help the man to grow. It may help him to attain Infinitely richer gain.

Loss of health is worse by far Than our money losses are.

Loss of honor, loss of will, Loss of courage, loss of skill,

Loss of friends and loss of wit Leave a mortal badly hit.

Men who still these joys retain Place and fortune may regain.

Failure's temporary sting With it greater joy may bring, It may rouse a man to find Hidden powers of heart and mind.

It may stir within his breast Strength of which he'd never guessed.

He may gain new splendors, which He'd have lost by staying rich. (Copyright, 1921, Edgar A. Guest)

Wide Bonus Debate Reveals Possibility Of Compromise

Economic Difficulties Are Generally Recognized But Veterans Who Are In Distress Are Held To Be Entitled To Highest Consideration

Action by leaders of the American Legion in favor of payment of cash by the government on certificates of the veterans of the World War has resulted in a great national discussion, with the majority opinion tending toward compromise which will provide specific remedy for the needy rather than a general disbursement of funds.

"Representatives and senators," says the MILWAUKEE JOURNAL, "know that the plan of wholesale cash payments without regard to need is wrong. But many who are fearful that a vote against such a plan will be used against them in coming campaigns. Surely it is the duty of the service men as well as others to say to their congressmen: 'Look after those who are in need. We want those who risked everything taken care of. Those who are not in need are not the men to press their country for cash at a time like this.'"

The LOWELL EVENING LEADER declares: "There is no denying that many veterans are now feeling the economic pinch seriously. The question is whether it is not possible without too great a drain on the treasury to provide relief in such a manner that they may retain their rights in the certificates. To retard business recovery would put them at a fresh disadvantage."

The declaration by the national executive committee of the American Legion that the government immediately cash all of the compensation certificates of the veterans," in the opinion of the PORT WORTH RECORD-TELEGRAM, "will hardly record the opinions of the rank and file of the organization members."

That paper concludes: "Congress so easily could include the completion of all of the hospitalization projects and cut off the flow of cash to individual cases of men suffering because they can not prove their claims! If it could be induced to stay with the practical and remain away from the political contacts with the ex-service men there could be much deserved alleviation of suffering and a commendable increase in the circulation of money."

The SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE declines to argue the question, but offers "information to aid intelligent discussion of the various proposals." Pointing out that congress "voted a bonus of one dollar a day for each day of service, with some additional allowance for overseas service," that paper contributes these facts to the record: "Then—as now—the problem of paying the bonus in spot cash was the problem of raising the immense amount of money involved without disaster to the financial structure of the country. To avoid this danger and for other sound reasons the existing plan of deferred payment was devised."

***** If the government changes the plan and now cashes the certificate at maturity face it pays $100 for $245 of actuarial value. On figuring it on the actual bonus, the government would be paying $1000 for a $400 bonus which has earned five years' interest, minus the cost of insurance coverage for five years.

"The proposal certainly has two sides, each of which should be considered by those who favor cashing these certificates at this time," advises the LITTLE ROCK ARKANSAS DEMOCRAT, offering the queries: "If those veterans sacrifice their insurance, what provision can they make for caring for their survivors? While their need is great today, is it any greater than will be the need of their loved ones if they are left alone to fight the world's battles? Do those veterans need their insurance money today more than they will need it in old age?"

"We believe," says the ROCKFORD MORNING STAR, "that at the present time the men who once wore World War uniforms are the backbone of the nation's economic structure and there is no question but that in five or ten years they will have taken over largely the nature leadership of the economic community. We think it is a proud thing that these men can claim to this leadership, for they took the handicap of a year or two years out of their lives and still made good. It is for the veterans themselves to determine whether they will go into middle life they will assume the extra burden on business of the billions of dollars in compensation."

The Legion's first, its highest purpose," according to the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD, "must be to fight the battles of those who were disabled, or lend the helping hand to the families of veterans, living and dead. No other cause could hold the Legion together, no other service would justify its existence. Payment of the bonus now is a question of justice, of financing, and of legislation that cannot be referred to the Legion for solution. It must be solved by president and congress, and from president and congress the answer must come. The responsibility is theirs and no other's."

"An alternative proposal in congress, to increase the loan value of certificates, may afford a basis for compromise by those who feel that the veterans should receive some additional compensation at this time," suggests the PORT WAYNE NEWS-SENTINEL. The ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT holds that "unless in need the veterans should hold on to their certificates" but that "it should be practical to increase the amounts obtainable as loans upon their certificates." Demanding a presidential veto upon "threatened attack on the return of prosperity," the NEW YORK EVENING POST declares: "This country may expect to see congress

The World And The Mud Puddles

WHAT COMMITTEE DID NOT DO

The members of the Wickersham Committee were supposed to report upon crime and crime prevention, but about all they reported was a disagreement upon the Eighteenth Amendment and it took them a long time to do this.

Incidentally, in 1929, more than 14,000 people in the United States were killed by their brothers, an average of nearly forty killings every day. Of the killers responsible for these deaths, all but seventy-five escaped death penalties and for every 160 criminal killings, only one person was given the death penalty. That is one of the reasons that the death penalty is not feared by murderers.

There are approximately 116,000 killers at large, more than half the number of clergymen in the United States.

Of the $1,000 persons confined in the greater prisons and reformatories of the United States in 1923, the year of the latest figure possessed by the writer, 14,300 were there for unlawful killing, one of every six.

In that year nearly 5,000 prisoners escaped from all of the prisons in the United States and the number of prisoners pardoned or paroled

How to Get Relief From Catarrh.

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness, or head noises, go to New Castle Drug Co., Ecker's or your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parment (Double Strength); take this home, add to it 1 pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to make, tastes pleasant and costs little. Every one who has catarrh should give this treatment a trial. You will probably find it is just what you need.

was twice the number of prisoners released because their sentences had expired.

In the United States, men and women who wholly or partly make their living by crime number 350,000, an army of criminals twice the size of both the union and confederate armies in the Battle of Gettysburg. This great army of savage criminals lives not because of the lack of laws in the United States.

Each year more than 100,000 new laws are made by the law making powers of the nation. A total of more than 2,000,000 laws are now on the statute books, and neither the State Legislatures or the Congress of the Nation ever take the trouble to repeal laws.

That crime is the result of mental deficiency is the most dangerous and pernicious excuse that can be made for the existence of this great army of criminals. A predatory criminal is as sane as the average law abiding citizen, but he is vastly more lazy, selfish and cruel.

A famous Judge of the Criminal Court, speaking from fifteen years' experience at the Bar and thirty years on the Bench, said: "No man plunges into crime at the first leap. The criminal has slowly evolved the dark elements within his own heart until one hour, the opportunity being given, the long harbored impulse breaks loose. No sane man ever commits a penitentiary crime when he is sure of suffering for his deed."

The certainty that sure and swift punishment will overtake the law breaker is the most effective crime preventive and the failure of our law enforcement machinery has led to the breaking of the law. Delays of the law, sentimental theories, technicalities, base alliances between criminals and those who defend them in the courts, all go to make easy the path of the criminals.

The criminals greatest friend is complaisant public opinion. The Wickersham Committee was appointed, ostensibly, to study all this and suggest remedies and now observe the Result!

Diet Rich In Sugars Best For Gallstones

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"Medical drainage of the gall bladder" was a term used in this column several weeks ago and puzzled some of my readers greatly. It refers to a method of treatment in great vogue several years ago. It is not used so frequently now, but still has its value in proper cases.

It depends for its action on the old method of treating mild infections of the gall bladder. This was to have the patient drink a large glass of epsom salts or sodium phosphate dissolved in hot water before breakfast. The solution was imbibed slowly and was supposed to open up the mouth of the gall bladder in the intestines and allow the infected bile to drain out.

The next step in our understanding of the way it worked came from Dr. S. J. Meltzer. He showed that if magnesium sulphate (epsom salts) was applied directly to the opening of the gall bladder in the intestines, the muscle which kept this opening closed would relax. At the same time the gall bladder would contract and force out bile into the intestine.

Instead of depending on the uncertainties of action of the epsom salts which were taken in the morning, it occurred to a Philadelphia physician that the salts could be introduced into the intestine exactly at the place wanted. He therefore had his patients swallow a small metal bulb with perforations in it and attached to a hollow rubber tube. This would go easily into the stomach, and when the patient lay on the right side for a while would gradually get out into the intestine, and lie just over the opening of the bile ducts. When this had occurred a 50 per cent solution of epsom salts was run through the tube and appeared in the intestine exactly at the place wanted. The gall bladder contracted, the contained bile flowed out into the intestine and was sucked up by the tube. If it contained infectious material or pus this was removed from the body.

In proper cases it seems to do a great deal of good. It is of no value when gallstones have actually formed. Biliary antiseptics—substances which have an antiseptic value and are excited into the gall bladder when taken by mouth—have not been found very valuable in treating gall tract infection. One of these substances is called methena-mine and another mercurochrome, but their action is very uncertain.

The diet, which should be free from fat and rich in sugar, was prescribed Saturday.

Plenty of exercise in the open air and a deliberate attempt to lose weight complete the scheme for the medical management of gall bladder disease.

This regimen will often, with the help of time, result in a resolution of the trouble. Even if it does not, it will put the patient in good physical condition for surgical intervention.

Peter's Adventures

THE NEW MILKMAID

All the while Chief Engineer had been telling of her trip to a real man's town, Lively had been staring down the road. Now the little Black Ant slave nudged Peter.

"Say, boy, here comes the poor captive I was telling you about."

Peter looked where the Black Ant's antennae was pointing, and almost cried out loud for joy. The poor captive was certainly busy. The boy knew his old friend at once, and had all he could do to keep from running to her.

Busy was shuffling along as if she were very tired, and the boy thought she was dragging something heavy.

"The captive is being forced to work for her bed and board," explained Lively. "She is doing a milkmaid's work and lugging milk from the dairy up to the nursery."

Busy kept her eyes upon the ground and the boy was glad, for it would never do for Busy to spy him before, he had told Lively he knew Busy. Peter thought quickly.

"Say, Lively, that captive looks much like a dear old friend of mine. By the way, my friend's name, too, was Busy."

"What Lively thought, Peter nodded, and Busy came on and on, dragging her feet and hanging her head. So interested in her was Peter that he never noticed Lively watching him out of the corner of her eye. What Lively thought, Peter never was quite sure, for at this moment Busy caught sight of the boy and stood stock still. Her face, which had been so very sad, grew cheerful.

Emergency Crop For Farmers Is Discussed Today

Extension Work Among Farmers Today Includes Talk
On Hay Crops

Many Lawrence county farmers are wondering just what their best plans are for treating their new seedlings and the older meadows in order to insure a good hay crop following a poor season of growth, such as they experienced last year.

Crop questions, including the topic of emergency hay crop, will be discussed at a series of meetings throughout the county this week. The meetings are being sponsored by the Pennsylvania State College, the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Lawrence County Agricultural Extension Association.

The first of the meetings was held this morning in the Liberty Grange hall. At 2 p. m. today the meeting was held in the home of Guy Van Meter of Pulaski township.

E. J. Walster, agronomy specialist from State College, is the speaker at the meetings. The meetings are being introduced by County Farm Agent H. R. McCulloch.

Many farmers feel that it will be necessary to use a short season emergency hay crop in order to insure a good cutting for next winter's feeds. These and other questions are being discussed at these meetings.

Lake Michigan

(International News Service)
PEROSKEY, Mich., Feb. 9.—Two army planes from Selfridge Field, Mich., were pressed into service today in the search for George Kruskie, 21-year-old fisherman who has been stranded on an ice flow in Lake Michigan since Friday. The planes were piloted by Lieutenants Harry Johnson and Edward Underhill.

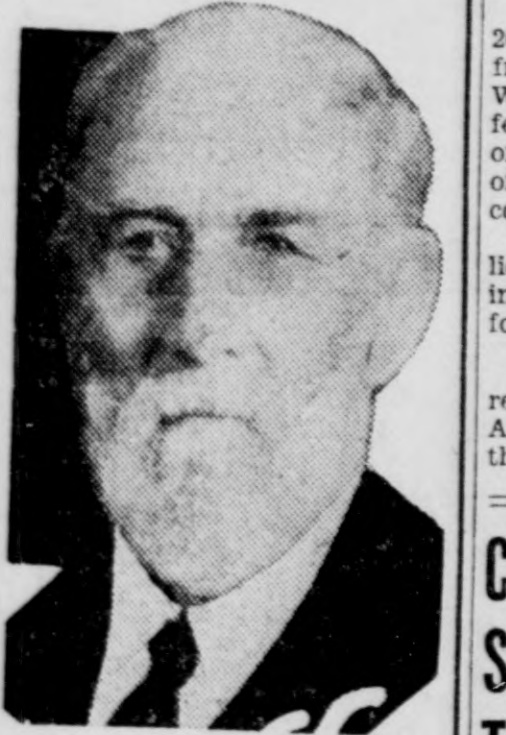

Rescuers believe Kruskie may have been able to reach White Shoal lighthouse or Hog Island. Coast-guardsmen have been unable to reach the lighthouse in which lights were reported seen.

Four cross village fishermen were rescued from an ice floe Saturday after spending four hours floating in Lake Michigan.

results and men and women in all walks of life have given public testimony to that effect. A recent report comes from Mr. William Veith, 2201 Sassafras St., Erie, Pa.

"My stomach has caused me continual suffering for the past eight years. No matter how careful I was of what I ate, I suffered distressing pains of indigestion and gas followed. My kidneys became weakened. I suffered from backache and frequent dizzy spells. I was forced to use laxatives continually because of constipation.

"Nu-Erb has been the first medicine to ever help me and for that reason I cheerfully recommend it. In just a few weeks, it has rid me of the indigestion and gas. My kidneys are stronger and the pains have left my back. I am no longer troubled with bilious attacks or dizzy spells. My bowels move regularly and I am feeling better in every way."

Wants Payments To Wife Reduced

Arthur J. Harris Asks Court To Cut Down On Order Of $5 Per Week

In the case of the commonwealth against Arthur J. Harris in which he was ordered to pay his wife $5 per week for her support, defendant presented a petition in court this morning, asking that the amount of payment be reduced, owing to defendant's decreased earning power.

A rule was granted on Mrs. Emma Harris to show cause why the petition should not be granted.

In the case of Pete Pecararo against the Cartwright Hardware Company defendant was given 15 days in which to file an answer to an amended statement of claim.

In the case of E. J. O'Brien against George G. Deuble, defendant was also given 15 days in which to file an answer to an amended statement of claim.

In the case of the New Castle Furnace Company, use of the Home Credit Company against William M. Pitzer a petition was presented to strike off judgment. Rule, returnable February 23, was granted.

Opinions Of Court Are Handed Down

Three Decisions By Judge R. L.
Hildebrand In Cases Recently Before Him

In an opinion handed down by Judge R. L. Hildebrand this morning in the case of Morris Newmark against Constable DeGraff Robinson, defendant was ordered to pay the claim of George Chipoline, Sr., which amounted to $200. The case was one in which Newmark had rented a storeroom to George and Joseph Chipoline to be used as a pool room. The outfit was seized on a landlord's warrant for rent and sold by Constable Robinson for $258.84. George Chipoline, Sr., then put in a claim for services as janitor amounting to $200. The case went before the court in the nature of a "stated case" for the court to determine the validity of the claim of George Chipoline, Sr., which is upheld. The balance of the money, less expenses, is to be paid by Newmark.

In the case of Joseph Bernstein against E. H. Scarazzo and Sam Di Carlo, growing out of a dispute over a lease for a storeroom, Judge Hildebrand handed down an opinion in which it is found that the plaintiff is entitled to build until Feb. 1, 1932, for which he is to pay defendants $80 per month. The room was originally leased in 1927 for one year with an option of four.

In the case of C. J. Miller, N. D. Pyle and A. B. Street, trading as Miller, Pyle & Graham, against Maurice J. Kraus and Charles Matthews, administrators of A. Martin Graham, deceased, rule issued on plaintiffs for judgment for want of sufficient affidavit of defense, is discharged and the motion refused. The case grew out of a bill for the printing of a paper book in the case of Sylvester H. Hergenrother against Nick Rosen.

Pleads Guilty To Having Gallon, Is Released On Bail

Angelo Filigenzi, aged about 35, of 201 Madison street, was released from custody today by Alderman Walter T. Hamilton, when the defendant pleaded guilty to violation of the Snyder act and posted bond of $1,500 for his appearance in county court in March.

Filigenzi was arrested by city police Sunday. A gallon of intoxicating liquor is reported to have been found in his machine.

CATARRH POISONS THE SYSTEM--WORLD'S Tonic HELPS BRING PROMPT RELIEF

HELPS DRIVE OUT THE POIS-ONS FROM THE SYSTEM AND RESTORES THE MUCOUS MEMBRANES THROUGHOUT
THE BODY TO HEALTHY NOR-MAL FUNCTIONING

It inflames the mucous membranes, causes festering sores that drop foul matter into the throat, infecting the throat, air passages, lungs and stomach.

Catarrh develops from inflammation of the mucous membranes in many parts of the body. It is especially prevalent in this section in the form of catarrh of the head, although there are numerous cases of catarrh of the stomach, bowels, kidneys and other organs and no doubt many of our readers recall numerous cases where catarrh developed into tuberculosis with fatal results. One has only to notice the offensiveness of the secretions from nasal catarrh to realize the danger where such dreadful sores exist and the necessity of healing them at once and thus stopping the distribution of such a virulent poison into the system as it is swallowed into the stomach.

"World's Tonic" is a new and original method of treatment which cleans the sores in the nasal passages, soothes them and helps to heal them. It also helps to eliminate the accumulated poisons from the system and helps to purify the blood. It helps to reduce the bowels, causing the poisons to leave the kidneys and the bladder, thereby causing the food to digest properly. For catarrh of Eckerd's, McKee's, Pitzer's, Smith's and all other good drug stores. (A-123)

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Dr. Myers Gives Rules Formed To Aid Parents In Shaping Boy's Habits

Attack Easier Problem First, Expert Says, Setting Bed-time Hour And Keeping Promise Of Punishment

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

"My boy of six wets the bed," said a mother in a study group. "When I help him get dry clothes he wants to come into my bed with me. Just a little while," he begs."

"Then what do you do?" I asked. "Well," she replied, "I generally let him. He says he is so lonely and finds it hard to go to sleep again in his own bed." Then she continued, "I tell him he wets the bed because he is too lazy to get up. I have had the doctor examine him and he finds nothing wrong."

"Does he go to bed regularly, and early enough?"

"Every night at seven I start him, but it is sometimes 11 before he goes to sleep, and sometimes I have to tell him for an hour or so before he goes. He feels around, calls me to tell me something, or to do something for him. I always go for I want him to know I love him. Sometimes he gets out of bed and comes down stairs to me."

"You have several problems of which the least is his bed-wetting. Why not forget about that for the present? Two more important problems are: (1) To teach him to send himself to bed at seven, say, by the clock. (2) To train him to stay in bed and never to expect you to come to him. The second one is simpler than the first, since it is always easier, as a rule, to keep a child from doing certain things than to make him want to do certain other things."

Better attack the easier problem first. Tell him before bed time not to get out of bed and exactly what will be the consequences if he does. Be truthful then. Tell him also that you are not coming back. When you say "good night" check over every item to be sure all his needs have been met. Then say, "Remember, I am not coming back." Better not forbid him to call. When he does, merely be deaf to him.

This problem well solved, proceed to hold him responsible for going to bed without your reminding him. Announce to him the consequences. Define the punishment for every minute he is in bed.

Then merely read the clock and proceed accordingly. Say nothing; seal your lips. If you think he will respond to a reward scheme, employ it, instead.

If he wets the bed don't be disturbed. Take it as a mere event not to be referred to at all. Until you have solved the two main problems incident to going to bed, better let him go on climbing into your bed when he gets up wet at night.

With them solved, announce to him during the day that you are going to call him up once or twice (or as often as you think necessary) to keep him dry; using an alarm clock if it is needed; that night, when he will take himself to the toilet and go back to his own bed. No more is he to climb into bed with you. Make this final, absolute. Tell him he can put his light on if he chooses.

By a reward scheme you may induce him to set the alarm clock to call himself up. At any event, always approve him heartily when he awakens dry in the morning.

Mothers who have a younger child, pray, don't ever let your child get into bed with you even once. If you do, you start a habit which may be no end of worry to you and the child. Never give any such unnecessary attention to him once if you do not wish to keep on doing so.

Bo Broadway

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Well, the last stone has been laid in the new Waldorf-Astoria, and the hotel stands completed as to exterior masonry, towering 47 stories above Park avenue—the tallest hotel on earth.

GOTHAMIAN
New York's pride in the Waldorf has something civic about it. It is as much a part of the town as its harbor, its skyline, Broadway, Central Park, The Library Lions, the Metropolitan Opera House, Fifth avenue, Riverside Drive or Wall street.

MERIT PRESTIGE
Thirty years ago, and more, the old red brick building at Thirty-fourth street and Fifth avenue, where Al Smith's Empire State building now stands, came into being.

There were numerous caravansaries about town, definitely placed in the public consciousness—hostels, famous in song and story the world over.

Invading that phalanx of prestige and eventually topping it, was no easy task. It wasn't an overnight job. It took years and years of patient and punctilious adherence to an ideal. Eventually the lumbering pile settled into a niche all its own. The name became symbolic.

WISTFUL MEMOIRS
Those were the "good old days," antedating prohibition—when "life rolled along like a song" when New York was studded with funny little inns and places where a man could pause in the day's grind to acquire new exhilaration with which to cheat the stony sermons of the street.

Those were the times before we had forgotten how to sprawl—when men still understood the value of the "nonchalance of camaraderie."

The fondest memories of the old Waldorf cluster about the cafe in the east wing.

There it was that the "Cocktail Hour" originated. You could drop in any time after The Market closed—when the ticker had eased off into a weary staccato—and encounter a group of rare human spirits taking their ease in their inns. All of them happy and healthy enough to relax for an hour or two, because only happy and healthy people know how to relax.

Fragrant smoke-wreaths like gossamer that idles in the sultry summer air. The steady hum of conversation was broken now and then by music of contented laughter—to say nothing of that daintier melody of ice clinking against silver and crystal. The servers were velvet-footed, discerning, capable—men in love with their jobs—artists.

A "clearing house of the spirit," that old-Waldorf bar.

RENDEZVOUS FOR TODAY AND YESTERDAY
Then came a change, as all things human.

The New Dispensation. The modern slant.

In the recrudescence of the Waldorf, uptown a little further and in the heart of Park avenue, the most difficult task that confronts its president, Lucius Boomer, is the harmonious merging of past and present—the perpetuation, in the new Waldorf, of all that was comfortable and roomy and human and kind and good, in the old place.

For the new Waldorf represents the mingling of two generations—a place where dad and mother may repair to flirt with sun-fringed shadows while Sonny and The Girls, daily in some distant precinct of the inn, coquetting with the angularities of Today.

A PERFECT HOST
In the matter of practical management and operation The Waldorf is fortunate in having a man like Bomper at the head. Oscar, of course, hovers at his elbow, with Augustus Nulle and a corps of others. All executives of sound judgment.

Their value resides in the fact that never, for a moment, is the practical permitted to crowd out the ideal.

The dream must first be dreamed. Potentially before realization. "Back of the dream, The Worker Who's making the dream come true."

What was the cause of President John Quincy Adams' death? How old was he?

John Quincy Adams was stricken with paralysis on February 21, 1848, while addressing the speaker of the house of representatives being at the time a member of congress. He died in the rotunda of the capitol. He was 81 years old.

When was gold first discovered in California?

In 1848.

What is the meaning of the name of the state of Oregon and when was it admitted into the Union?

Oregon is revived from a Spanish word meaning "wild thyme." It was organized as a territory in 1848 and was admitted into the Union in 1859.

Why is the United States called a "melting pot?"

The name "melting pot" is given to the United States because its historic policy has been to keep open doors to the oppressed peoples of all nations and to merge them into one nation of common language and common political ideals. Immigration, however, has been restricted in recent years.

What is a planetarium? How does it differ from an orrery?

An orrery is composed of balls corresponding in size to the sun and planets and arranged to turn about the sun on their orbit by means of the turning of a crank. A planetarium, as it is known today, is a much more complicated arrangement, taking in not only the solar system, but also most of the known stars. The machine is enclosed in a huge dome resembling the heavens, and upon this are projected tiny lights which reproduce in exact miniature the actual workings of the stars and planets. The machine is so intricate in design that it contains virtually all that is known about the universe. The spectator may not only see the stars and planets as they appear today, but may watch them unfold their relative positions hundreds of years hence, or by a few manipulations, the universe may be seen as it was at the time of Homer.

House To Take Up Eight Bills On Reconvening

Eight Measures Slated For First Calendar Readings In House

SEVERAL BILLS TO BE PROPOSED

Full Steam Ahead" Is Slogan As Assembly Meets Tonight

By ROBERT F. GOERMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent
HARRISBURG, Feb. 9.—"Full steam ahead" was the signal hung out today before the lower house of the general assembly as its members gathered here for resumption of their session at 9 o'clock tonight.

For the first time during the 129th session both houses of the assembly had calendars and in the house eight bills are scheduled for first reading.

Eight Bills Up.
Among them is the Weidemann bill, authorizing school districts of the first, second and third classes to engage in health work jointly with townships and municipalities.

The Heffron bill fixing the number, term and compensation of directors and auditors of the poor district of Jenkin township, Pittston borough and Pittsburgh township, in Luzerne county and providing for appointment of members by the court of common pleas, will also be on the calendar.

Other measures which will come before the house tonight on the first stage of their regular legislative journey include a measure making it unlawful to counterfeit electric railway tokens and bus tickets; another amending the act validating real estate purchased at judicial sales for unpaid taxes; one ceding jurisdiction of the site of the new federal prison near Lewisburg to the federal government, and one making a deficiency appropriation to the department of forests and waters.

State Election Code.
Introduction of proposed laws was scheduled to continue in the house with probably one of the most important measures of the session—the proposed state election code—slated to be introduced by Rep. D. Glenn Moore, Washington.

The code, which has the approbation of the administration, has been drafted in final form and is ready for presentation to both chambers. Tonight was set for its debut into the legislative whirl, under plans of its sponsors.

The opening session in the lower chamber, according to all indications, was to be the signal for a busy week.

Clergyman Gives Lincoln Address

Rotarians Of City Hear Dr. John S. Duncan—Warden Ashe Guest

"The Immortal Lincoln" was the subject of the enlightening and educational noon-day address which Dr. John S. Duncan, former pastor of the Mercer Presbyterian church, delivered before the city's Rotary club at the Castleton today. Dr. Duncan has retired as a pastor.

Scout Executive Herbert G. Horton was present today and as a feature to the Boy Scout "Anniversary Week" program, presented scout buttons to 13 of the club's membership. Scouters are men who are actively engaged in scout work.

Stanley Ashe, warden of the Western Penitentiary at Pittsburgh and the president of the Pittsburgh Rotary club, and Frank Fuller, Youngstown Rotarian, were in attendance to hear Dr. Duncan's message.

Colored Man Held As Holdup Suspect

Captured Sunday Evening When Suspected Of Attempt On Scioto Street

Edward Miller, colored, is being held by the police pending an investigation of his suspected activities along holdup lines.

He was arrested Sunday night by Lieutenant of Police Peter Hillers and assisting officers, after he was reported as having been acting in a suspicious manner.

According to Henry Budzowski of the Model Baking Company, he was at the Scioto street door of his plant about 11:30 o'clock last night, when Miller started across the street toward him. Mr. Budzowski feared a holdup and yelling, ran into his plant. Miller also ran away only to be apprehended later.

Miller is being held pending a possible identification by Joseph Budzowski, 1613 South Jefferson street, a brother of Henry Budzowski, who was held up and robbed of $42 in Big Run Alley by two colored men a few nights previous. It is believed that Miller is one man figuring in that holdup.

To those persons who have habitual or occasional stomach trouble, such as gastric hyperacidity, sour stomach, gas disturbances, bloating, belching, heartburn, bad breath (halitosis), loss of appetite, or undisturbed sleep, Fry's Peppermint Tablets. To our personal knowledge, this remedy has relieved and corrected hundreds of such cases of stomach trouble, many of which were of a long standing nature. In the top picture standing next the police officer on the left, is Patrick Horrihan, the only member of the fishing party to take his boat with him on the ice, who rescued those shown with him in the photo. Charles McCarthy, inset, notified the authorities on learning of the break and walked six miles through a blinding blizzard to warn fishing parties of the danger. Rescue parties were working to reach 18 others drifting helplessly about on the lake.

Airport Offered To War Department

(International News Service)
WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Feb. 9.—Use of the Wyoming Valley airport, on the outskirts of Wilkes-Barre, as a base for U. S. Army aerial defense squadrons during the forthcoming air corps maneuvers in May, has been offered to the War Department by Col. E. G. Smith, president of the Wyoming Valley Association.

New York will be the main objective of "enemy" squadrons during the maneuvers, and in view of that fact, Col. Smith pointed out, the local airport offers an ideal defense base.

"The airport," he said, "lies within little more than a hundred miles of the objective and can amply fill all requirements of a defense base. Besides, the maneuvers contemplate defensive measures for the nation's anthracite fuel supply—most of which is located in the Wyoming Valley of northern Pennsylvania—and with that in mind, we feel the airport here would fit in very nicely with plans of the war department for these maneuvers."

Use Airplane In Feeding Wild Game

(International News Service)
GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 9.—An airplane was pressed into service by game protectors here when the question of providing food for starving game became important in the protection of wild life.

Game protectors were unable to reach the Laurel Ridge district because of heavy snows which made the trails impassable.

So they hired an airplane, loaded 100 bushels of scratch feed and three bushels of corn into it and distributed it by tossing it from the plane in paper bags.

Orthopedic Surgery Has Removed Menace

(International News Service)
LEECHBURG, Pa., Feb. 9.—Modern orthopedic surgery has taken much of the menace from injuries received by mill and factory workers, Dr. Marlin W. Heilman, of Tarentum, chief surgeon for a Pennsylvania steel company, told an audience here.

"It isn't that we haven't as many serious accidents as formerly," Dr. Heilman said. "But we are prepared through surgery to do a better job and turn out patients still capable of working where formerly they would have suffered amputations and loss of employment."

Definite Stand On P. S. C. Fight Due For Senate

State Senate To Take Up Proposed Probe Of Service Commission

KEEN OPPOSITION IS EXPRESSED

May Pass Resolution; Then
Battle Upon $100,000
Appropriation

By WILLIAM B. BROWN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Feb. 9. — With both administration forces and the opposition anxious for action on the impasse now facing the legislature, the senate tonight is expected to take a definite stand on the proposed investigation of the Public Service Commission.

Although several courses are open, the real test is expected to come on the Moore resolution which, having passed the house, will be ready for action in the upper chamber. Both forces can make a genuine test of strength on that measure.

Keen Opposition
Those unfriendly to the Pinchot administration make no secret of their opposition to the Moore resolution in its present form. It provides for an investigating committee of three members of the house, three of the senate, and three to be named by the Governor. The opposition holds the chief executive has no right to representation on a committee which is intended to conduct a legislative inquiry.

Senate leaders realize that amending the resolution so as to remove the section which provides for the three representatives of the Governor will serve only to prolong the struggle. The margin by which the resolution passed the house is sufficient to prevent approval of a measure limiting the investigation to the General Assembly alone.

Another way to sidestep a real test of strength, already considered by some members hostile to the Governor, would be to pass the resolution in its present form and then battle upon the $100,000 appropriation provided for in a companion measure which is not in the senate.

Both Sides Wary
Because of the narrow margin by which Senator Augustus F. Daix, Jr., was named president pro tem over Senator William D. Mansfield, the Governor's candidate—the only vote yet taken which has given an index as to the strength of the administration in the senate—neither side today was willing to forecast a marked victory in the utility probe matter.

The situation in the upper chamber is complicated because three resolutions for the same general purpose as that presented by Rep. Moore are already before it. Two are sponsored by Senator Earnest Dauphin, and the third by Senator Salus, Philadelphia.

The original Earnest resolution, providing also for a joint legislative investigating committee but without executive representation, is on the second reading calendar. A motion to return it to committee might, or might not, develop into a clear issue. In any event, senate leaders would have a stormy time in the house, doubtless ending in defeat.

Senate Would Act
The second Earnest resolution, which would limit the proposed probe strictly to the senate, appeals more to the administration's opponents. The senate alone acts on executive nominations to the commission and for that reason can excuse a course which would leave the house out of the picture. But an appropriation for such an investigation would require house approval which could not be obtained.

The Moore resolution is more sweeping than those of senate origin and would provide for delving into the cross-currents of politics and propaganda in which utility companies are alleged to have engaged. In addition, unlike the senate resolutions, no time limit is fixed and the committee could take as many months or years as it desired for its work.

In the perplexing tangle of the entire situation only one fact stands out clearly.

That is that few, if any, members of the legislature actually approve an investigation of the public service commission at this time. It is admitted that a fair review of the commission's action in recent years would require months and, possibly, an extra session of the legislature.

No one favors that possibility.

CALLING OFF BUTLER TRIAL IS WELCOMED IN OFFICIAL CIRCLES

he was placed under military arrest. All over the capital today the question was being asked: "Who called off the trial?" It promises to become almost as famous as the question of: "Who Killed Cock Robin?"

Officially, no one will admit initiating the negotiations which led to the abandonment of the trial. The official silence on this phase of the matter is deep and impenetrable. But unofficially, the credit for calling off what promised to be the most spectacular court martial in the history of the navy is being given to the State department and the Italian embassy, neither of which relished the prospect of seeing Gen. Butler try to prove in open court that his observations anent the Italian dictator were true.

Public Opinion Factor
There is small doubt that the state of public opinion was taken into account in the decision.

For the past week, letters and telegrams from all parts of the country have poured into Washington expressing sympathy with Gen. Butler and criticizing the administration's decision to put him on the legal spot for his remarks. The White House has received a bushel basket of them. Senators and representatives have been deluged with them. Butler himself has received upwards of 2,000 letters, some of them containing money with which to prosecute his case. And in Washington, as elsewhere, the moving picture theatres have rounded to applause when Butler's face was thrown on the screen, with corresponding groans and hisses for Il Duce.

The Italian embassy has been particularly sensitive to this state of affairs, and it is significant that the decision to call off the trial was reached after Noble Giacomo De Martino, the Italian ambassador, had a long and earnest conversation with Secretary of State Stimson.

The ambassador is understood to have protested that neither he nor his government wished to see Gen. Butler put on trial. The personal feelings of Il Duce and the honor of the Italian government were completely assuaged by the formal apology which Secretary Stimson extended to the ambassador immediately after Gen. Butler admitted making the remarks attributed to him.

What more, the ambassador asked, could be desired? Of course, he went on, if the American government wished to go ahead with the trial and the attendant world-wide publicity, that (with a shrug) was America's business, but from the Italian standpoint they would be glad to see the thing called off.

Court Martial A Mistake
This view ultimately prevailed, and the decision having been made time was lost in carrying it into effect. The Sabbath quiet in Washington was thereupon broken with the momentous announcement.

Friends of Gen. Butler, and, for that matter, a number of those not particularly friendly to him, have contended from the start that the court martial was a mistake.

Secretary of the Navy Adams, his immediate chief, was one of those who believed that the Stimson apology and a reprimand to Butler himself was all that was ever necessary in the case. He was over-ruled by President Hoover and Secretary Stimson, after the matter had been thoroughly canvassed at a cabinet meeting. Secretary Stimson was reported to have been especially concerned over the position in which Gen. Butler's remarks had placed the State department. Seldom before in history, it was pointed out, had the State department been compelled to apologize to a foreign government under such circumstances. Stimson's viewpoint is considered to be the fact that some months ago Gen. Butler was accredited with some popular remarks about the manner in which a Nicaraguan election was conducted under State department auspices.

In any event, it was the Stimson point of view that prevailed with President Hoover and the court martial was forthwith ordered.

Little Too Hasty
Later, when Gen. Butler retained a group of counselors and began making plans for an elaborate defense, it began to dawn upon official Washington that perhaps the step had been a little too hasty.

Secretary Adams insisted that the court martial be open to the public, which meant that upwards of fifty reporters were going to be at the ringside to report fully to the world this most remarkable case wherein an American general case wherein complimentary things he had said about the head of a friendly foreign government were, in fact, true. It was a prospect that could not be relished from the standpoint of international peace and amity.

Consequently, an emissary of the administration approached Gen. Butler and discussed the desirability of calling the whole thing off. Being possessed of a sense of humor that has, on occasion, got him into "seeds of trouble," the general consented.

His letter to Secretary Adams did not state that the charge which he made against Mussolini was untrue, nor did it contain any personal apology to Il Duce. Gen. Butler merely expressed regret at the embarrassment he had caused the government, and returned to his "leather necks" at Quantico, with a grin.

Travels 15,000 Miles To Marry Sweetheart Who Lives In Jungles

(By Central Press)

BEAUMONT, Tex., Feb. 9.—A Texas girl who has no fear of the jungle warriors of Burma, India, is traveling 15,000 miles to wed her sweetheart whom she has not seen for four years, following a courtship of 13 years.

With a honeymoon planned along the "Road to Mandalay" after a wedding ceremony at Rangoon, Miss Bona Lofland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lofland, of this city, sailed from San Francisco to join Leonard Whitley, former Texas and California oil operator, at the Burmese port.

Miss Lofland is accompanied by Gaither Whitley, a brother of the man she is to wed, who came from Burma last autumn to Phoenix, Ariz., to claim a bride there after having promised his brother, Leonard, to bring Miss Lofland back with him.

Sweethearts 13 Years
Miss Lofland met Whitley at Spur Lake, Texas, in 1917, after she was graduated from high school in Fort Worth, and they have been sweethearts ever since.

When her future husband's brother arrived from India and claimed his bride, Miss Lofland arranged to give up her position with a large hardware concern, visited her parents in Beaumont, and then left for California to join her brother-in-law and his bride.

They will travel for 50 days, landing in Rangoon on March 10. The wedding will follow, and the honeymoon is expected to be spent in Mandalay.

The Whitley brothers are affiliated with an oil company in that province and have another year under contract there.

Both Sides Want Damages In Auto Accident Case

Machines Of Charles Bernine
And John Maslicko Meet On Mahoning Avenue

The case of Charles Bernine against John Maslicko, in which the plaintiff asks $5,415.58 damages as a result of an automobile accident on Mahoning avenue, was taken up before Judge R. L. Hildebrand this morning. Bernine was going west on Mahoning avenue and claims that he was driving close to the curb, when he was struck by the machine of Maslicko, going west. It is claimed by Bernine that the Maslicko car was past the center of the road, and that it was due to Maslicko's carelessness that the accident occurred. Bernine was injured and had his car badly wrecked. Maslicko, the defendant, denies that he was to blame for the accident, alleged that it was the fault of Bernine. Maslicko asks $375 damages from Bernine.

Forgery Case Puzzles District Attorney, Surprised At Hearing

A puzzling development in a forgery case before Alderman J. Lee Cooper this morning resulted in the case being postponed until Friday for additional evidence.

The case was that of Alexios Elades of 118 West Long avenue, charging William J. Chrissis of 1310 Pennsylvania avenue with forgery. Elades contends that the defendant swindled him out of $213.70 by cashing a draft on the Greek National Bank of New York. The draft, the plaintiff declared, had been made for himself last June and sent to Chrissis by the bank.

The defendant is then declared to have cashed it at the Union National Bank of this city.

Chrissis was arrested last week and is out on bail of $500, District Attorney Powers said.

CHARGES AGAINST BUTLER DROPPED, NO COURT MARTIAL

ly pursuant to a resolution previously adopted.

"You are informed in this connection that the navy department cannot express too clearly its disapproval of the conduct of any officer of the navy establishment in making remarks which tend to embarrass the international relations of the government. Such action on the part of an officer of your rank and length of service merits and receives the unqualified condemnation of the navy department and for their utterance, which you admit, you are hereby reprimanded."

"In view of your letter expressing regret, taken in connection with your long record of brilliant service, the navy department feels that it is no longer necessary to resort to proceedings by general court martial, and expects that this incident will have a salutary effect upon your future conduct in matters of this character."

(Signed)
"C. F. Adams,"
Butler's Letter

The Butler letter to the navy department, which brought orders suspending the court martial, transmitted also by Maj. Gen. Puller, follows:

"The Secretary of the Navy! In connection with the decision of the department to try me by general court martial it is requested that consideration be given to the matters hereinafter set forth.

"I was told by the president of the Contemporary club before which I spoke on January 19, 1931, that I could speak my 'mind freely' and from his remarks, taken in their entirety, I understood that the club was composed of responsible members of the community interested in public questions, and that my statements were to be confined to the limits of the four walls.

"This information is submitted on the assumption that it was not in the department's possession when it was decided to bring me to trial. I very greatly regret that my indiscreet remarks have caused embarrassment to the government.

(Signed)

Adams announced his decision in a brief statement to the press, concluding with, "The secretary of the navy has decided to withdraw the charges and specifications recently preferred against him (Butler) and to dissolve the general court martial. General Butler will be reprimanded by the secretary of the navy."

The exchange of letters and dropping of charges against the marine officer terminated a situation of officials admitted was becoming increasingly embarrassing.

Decision to drop the charges, while coming as a direct result of the Butler letter, came not long after Ambassador Martin of Italy paid a visit to Secretary of State Stimson.

Mussolini Forgets

ROME, Feb. 9.—"I have already forgotten the whole matter, except the kind touch of friendship the American government showed towards Italy and me."

In those words Premier Benito Mussolini disposed today of the information received here from Washington that General Smedley D. Butler has been spared a scheduled court-martial following a written apology to the United States navy secretary for reference to Il Duce as a hit-run driver.

Following protest through the Italian embassy at Washington over the remarks by Butler and subsequent apology tendered by Secretary of State Stimson, Premier Mussolini advised that he regarded the incident as a closed matter.

Friends Delighted

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—Delight was expressed here today by friends of Major General Smedley D. Butler, U. S. M. C., whose court martial was ordered discontinued yesterday by Navy Secretary Adams.

"A big boy" declared Commander Frank K. Hyatt, commandant of the Pennsylvania military college, Chester, Pa., who had written to President Hoover to end the proceedings.

"I am glad to see a return of reason in Washington," stated Judge Harry McDevitt, one of the General's friends.

"I am not surprised" said Colonel Archibald M. Holding, of Butler's defense counsel, speaking from his home in West Chester.

"I'm perfectly delighted," was the comment of Roland S. Morris, former ambassador to Japan, also of defense counsel.

General Butler's mother, at her home in West Chester, declared that she was too overcome with joy at the outcome to discuss it and asked to be excused from making any comment.

Reporters Crashed Gates

Philadelphia, Feb. 9.—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler's belated explanation of why he spoke without thought of consequences at the Contemporary Club dinner here on January 19th was given the official confirmation today of the organization's president, the Rev. Dr. Frederick R. Griffin.

"Gen Butler was our guest of January 19," he declared, "and I assured him he could speak his mind freely. We had voted at our meeting last June that there would be no reporters and at the next meeting in November members were notified that the meeting was to be confidential."

Dr. Griffin expressed the opinion reporters must have gained entrance to the gathering through cards given them by members of the organization and were there uninvited when the marine commandant of the Quantico barracks made his reference to Premier Mussolini of Italy as a hit-and-run motorist.

Will Know Cost Before Work Starts

If Widening Costs Too Much
Project Will Be Abandoned

Council met formally in the city building today and adopted an ordinance which provided for the widening of E. Washington street from Florence avenue to a point 47.16 feet east from the intersection of the center line of Washington street with Chestnut street.

The bill also provides for a grade opening, appropriating, condemning and purchase of land necessary for the improvement.

The land is owned by Joseph Puccio et al., Mrs. Rosanna Burgo and Matilda McGregor.

The measure adopted, opens the way for a review, and if the cost is not excessive the improvement will be made.

Should the damages prove exorbitant the improvement will not be made, according to city officials.

The point involved is a sharp curve. It is impossible for traffic to operate alongside street cars going in the same direction, hence the plan to widen the thoroughfare.

MAJOR JACKSON ANNOUNCES LIST C. M. T. C. CAMPS

Five Camps Have Been Designated In The Third Corps Area This Year

Major W. Fulton Jackson, chairman of the Citizen's Military Training Corps work in the Lawrence county district today announced the list of camps that will operate this year in the Third Corps Area and the time during which the annual period of training, will be conducted at these camps.

There are five of these camps and the period of time during which the training will occur is from July 2 to July 31. Lawrence county applicants who are accepted for this work will be designated to the camp in which the specific course in which they are interested is given.

While the quota of young men of this county that will be permitted to take the course this summer has not yet been announced, past experience indicates that there will be more applicants from the county than there will be places to send them.

For that reason, the young men who are interested in getting this training should not delay making their applications and get their blanks at once from Major Jackson and send them in.

All basic or first year courses this year will be taught at Fort Washington, Maryland. The second, third and fourth year courses for infantry will be taught at this same place.

The other camps and the courses to be taught are as follows: Fort George G. Meade, Maryland, Signal Corps, Red, White and Blue Courses (2nd, 3rd, and 4th year).

Fort Hoyle, Maryland, Field Artillery, Red, White and Blue courses (2nd, 3rd and 4th year).

Reports Of Congregational Dis-

Pastor

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Feb. 9.—With reports of dissession in the congregation emphatically denied, police and detectives attached to the bomb squad today were investigating the blast in the Ebenezer Baptist church which caused injury to three persons, shattered windows in nearby buildings and routed a score of families from their beds.
Those injured were Miss Esther
Pine, 17; Mrs. Lena Lubetsky, 20, and Laura B. Scott, 27, a Negro.

Several other persons suffered shock
but were otherwise unhurt.
The bomb apparently had been church by a man who leaped from a slowly driven automobile, police said.

Rev. T. J. King, pastor of the church, denied reports of congrega-told them that laborers employed by a stone contractor engaged in remodeling the edifice complained two months ago of not having been paid.

Damage, consisting chiefly of shattered windows, was estimated at $5,000.

Workman Forfeits His Life In Effort To Save Companion

(International News Service)
YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 9.—
Friends today in eulogy pronounced W. R. Bartram, 61, the hero of the blast furnace gas tragedy in which he gave up his life in a futile attempt to save John Jenkins, 57, father of nine children, who was overcome by the deadly fumes in the plant of the Republic Steel Corporation here.
Two other employes narrowly escaped death as the fumes overcame the workers who sought to rescue the two victims from the bottom of the pit. The men, Mike Fennick, 32, and Aaron May, 39, toppled over when they had rescued Bartram and Jenkins.
Jenkins, a repairman, was overcome by the fumes, employes said, when he left the main building to open a water valve in a condenser connected with the blowing engines.
No sooner had Jenkins entered the eight-foot square pit than he cried for aid as the acid fumes entered his lungs. Bartram ran to the man's aid and began his descent to the bottom of the pit notwithstanding the danger that faced him there.
In a few minutes, both men lay dead on the floor of the pit in the plant where Bartram had been employed since 1911.

had a reminder of his service in the World War when the postman here handed him three over-stamped, city 12 years ago. The letters were addressed to the port of debarkation in France, and Petty believes he passed them in mid-ocean as he was en route home. The letters were returned to him from the deadletter

INDIGESTION STOPPED

Relief in 5 Minutes
Practically all forms of indigestion from mildest stomach discomfort to chronic dyspepsia are caused by excess stomach acid which sets up premature food fermentation, generates gas and attacks the delicate stomach lining. These distressing conditions are best and most quickly and safely relieved by taking just a little "Bisurated" Magnesia after meals or whenever pain or discomfort is felt.
This instantly neutralizes excess acid and stops fermentation. Food is made sweet and digestible, the sore inflamed stomach lining is soothed and strengthened, and normal digestion proceeds without hindrance or pain. New Castle Drug Co. and reliable druggists everywhere supply genuine "Bisurated" Magnesia, either in powder or handy tablet form.
Taken as directed, it will bring almost instant relief from acid caused stomach troubles.

It won't be long now until the members of the Mahoning trap shooting club prepare to do damage to a lot of flying blue-locks. Club activities will start in the near future and will furnish an interesting diversion for the members during the spring and summer months.
Election of officers will take place

Observations In 7th Ward

A gentleman driving a car with a California license stopped at a local gas station on Saturday afternoon and asked if there are any grades on the Lincoln highway. He asked it innocent like and actually didn't know he was saying something funny. He was told to expect the worse. Said he was headed for York, Pa.

Sparky is a dog and he is as bright as his name. Bright in mind, we mean, and very black in color.
He hangs around the B. and O.
station and is the property of the Fisher family, next door. The dog is greatly respected by everybody and not because he has sharp teeth but because he is nice to cats. That is quite the virtue and he certainly should be admitted to dog heaven for that. Story is around that Sparky used to carry a kitten around in his mouth, and not so much as made it mew!

Ice on the street car tracks doesn't bother the motormen, according to one of the New Castle-Mahoningtown car operators, but it is ice on the trolley wires that cause the trouble. Saturday morning was one of those "ice on the trolley" days. Juice doesn't come so freely then.

It is a little early to turn up the ground in your garden, but a North Cedar street man was seen spading up the ground in the garden at the rear of his home and the lawn at the front, just a day or two ago.

G. I. A. MEETING

Members of the Blue Star club met in the Mahoningtown branch library on Saturday morning for their second meeting and first rehearsal of the play "Snowwhite."
The meeting was well attended and was in charge of Miss Alice Joyce, children's librarian.

SEVENTH WARD PERSONALS
Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dominick, of West Wash avenue, recently visited Youngstown friends and relatives.
The condition of N. E. Moore, of Ashland avenue, well known railroad man, is now much improved according to reports. Mr. Moore is mak-

East Cherry street extension were recent guests of friends and relatives in Ellwood City.

J. J. O'Rean, of Clayton street, spent Saturday in Akron, Ohio.
A. E. Ferguson, of Reynoldsville,
Baltimore and Ohio passenger conductor, is reported to be considerably improved in condition.

Mrs. J. H. Hosler, of 516 Cherry street, left on Saturday to visit her son at Albion, Pa.
Among the passengers to leave from the B. and O. railroad station on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Sam

Pile Sufferers

End Your Misery Without Salves or Cutting External treatments cannot permanently end Piles. Nor does cutting remove the cause.
The cause is internal—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. The veins are flabby—the bowel walls weak—the parts most dead. To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles an internal medicine must be used to heal and strengthen the affected parts.
Dr. J. S. Leonard, a specialist, after years of study discovered a real internal Pile remedy. He named his prescription
HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients, with the marvelous record of success in 999 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to relieve HEM-ROID from their own druggist.
Don't waste time on external remedies or think of the pain and expense of an operation until you have tried HEM-ROID.
New Castle Drug Co., or Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., will supply you and guarantee money-back if it does not end all Pile misery.

Magistrate Raises Ante On Foreigner For Harsh Language

(International News Service)
SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 9.—Magistrate John P. Kelly lays no claim to being a linguist.

But he has a good working knowledge of the intent behind any language attacks of his court are convinced.

Alex Romanick was haled before Magistrate Kelly, charged with being intoxicated. Kelly sentenced him to pay a $25 fine or serve 30 days in

Make Variety Of Products At Burton Factory

Powder Line Is In Full Swing, Making Sixty Grades Of Explosives

HARLAN PRAISED BY PLANT OWNERS

Less than five months since ground was broken for the new Burton explosives plant at Coverts Station, the "powder line" is in full swing.

A complete line of 21 types of high explosives for commercial use, sub-divided into 60 grades, are being manufactured and shipped to consumers.

Late in January F. B. Harlan, assistant general manager of the company, who had complete charge of the construction, turned over the keys to the industrial and chemical city he had created to Superintendent Paul Forney, chief of the operating forces.

Harlan Lauded
"Fritz" Harlan's accomplishment will long be remembered among dynamite makers. Other plants to assemble purchased materials have been built in short periods, but never has a plant been built to carry out the complete chemical cycle of explosives making in five short months.

The past month has been devoted largely to getting in the necessary stocks of raw materials; to testing out machinery for perfect functioning, and to adding those refinements which make for comfortable and efficient working conditions.

When all the machinery and processes were working on dummy charges of crude stuffs, then and then only was Mr. Harlan ready to turn over the plant he had seen sprout from a hayfield and gully last September to the manufacturers.

The new district sales office in the Temple building on North street is now open. Mr. Harlan will be in full charge of this. Another New Castle citizen, "Miff" Kincaid, will be associated in the western Pennsylvania territory, and F. J. Burton will cover the eastern Ohio district, while C. E. Akroyd and A. A. Gurdosh will assist in the office and field, as has been previously announced.

Forcey in Charge
In the meantime at Coverts Mr. Forney is directing the operating crew which is turning out finished products for the trade. The maze of machinery, reports, stills, concentrating benches, weighing, conveying and mixing equipment, under control of experienced operators, has become an orderly unit, where materials move smoothly and continuously through the various processes.

In the research and development laboratory A. S. Fox, technical director, with his staff of chemists, controls formulae and tests the samples of the various explosives made. Experiments are constantly under way to prove the efficacy of the products and to develop the best suited explosives for various needs. J. S. Burton, in reply to his announcement to the trade that goods were ready to be shipped on their orders, received congratulatory telegrams from his friends in every section of the eastern half of the country.

In commenting on this friendly response to his message he said: "Naturally I appreciate these kind expressions from my old friends. No one knows better than I, however, that in this project I was only the co-ordinator of an organization of experts whose efforts I could direct toward our accomplishment. The credit for the truly remarkable record of Burton Explosives thus far is due entirely to the fine group

Pittsburgh Man Suicide Victim

Young Man Suicides While Baby Is Being Christened At Church

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Feb. 9.—A spirit of happiness which pervaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Wroblewski on the first wedding anniversary and the christening of the couple's infant daughter gave way today to a pall of gloom as the result of the young husband committing suicide in the midst of the festivities, deputy coroners said.

Friends of the couple had gathered in their modest two-room apartment yesterday. The child, taken by the godparents, was in St. Stanislaus church for the christening ceremony. The husband had left the apartment, apparently on a trivial errand.

Suddenly a shot was heard from the basement. Several guests rushed downstairs and found the husband unconscious on the floor with a bullet wound in his head. The husband, aged 25, was dead when admitted to St. Francis's hospital.

Man Confesses Threat Writing

New Kensington Man Confesses He Wrote Several Threat Letters

(International News Service)
GREENSBURG, Feb. 9.—State police today believed they had thwarted intended blackmail attempts with the arrest of William N. Carson, 56, of New Kensington, who is charged with writing letters to three men demanding money and threatening the bombing of their homes if the demands were ignored. Confession to writing the letters has been given by Carson, police say. The man's son, Henry Carson, 27, was held as an accomplice by the state officers.

Receipt of letters demanding payment of $5,000 was claimed by W. G. Duggan, former Westmoreland county superintendent of schools, and A. C. and William Dinsmore, farmers, of New Kensington. Later, the three men said, they received another missive each demanding that $10,000 be put in a designated spot.

Arrests followed investigation by the state police, to whom the matter had been referred and the letters handed over.

STOP BOBBY'S COUGH

Before it Weakens Him to the Danger Point!

Never take a child's cough lightly. You can't tell where it will end. Many a serious sickness has started with "just a cough". For a cough is not only distressing, but weakening as well. At the first sign of a cough or chest soreness in old or young, always give good, dependable old "Piso's for Coughs".

Piso's does the five things necessary to stop a cough and repair the damage done. It checks the cough spasms, loosens the mucus, opens the air passages, soothes the inflamed tissues, and at the same time, has a tonic value that tends to build up what the cough tears down. Only Piso's supplies these, five vital effects and it contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach. Safe to give, even to babies. All druggists sell Piso's in 25c and 50c sizes. Be sure you ask for "Piso's for Coughs".

He might have won her ~if it hadn't been for 'B.O.'

"They both lived in our neighborhood. She was a pretty girl—and a mighty nice one, too. He was a fine steady-going young fellow—very much in love with her. But she didn't seem to fancy him.

"She went out with him several times, but after a little she turned him down. Of course she couldn't tell him the reason. 'B.O.'—body odor—is a delicate subject. But how different things might have turned out if he had only known what his trouble was and how easily Lifebuoy could have ended it."

The secret cause
Experiences like this happen every day—all around us. Disappointments in love—lost opportunities in business. But other explanations are given. We seldom realize how often "B.O." is to blame.

For people, as a rule, don't know when they offend. We become insensitive to an ever-present odor. We don't notice it in ourselves—but others do. Yet we must perspire. Even on cold days our bodies give off a quart of odor-causing waste.

Now millions have the satisfaction of knowing they're safe, the easiest way imaginable—by washing and bathing with Lifebuoy. Its penetrating, antiseptic lather purifies pores. Makes every inch of the body fresh and sweet-smelling.

Wonderful for complexions
Lifebuoy keeps complexions looking their best—soft, smooth, and clear. Gives them a healthy, glowing luster. Note Lifebuoy's pleasant, hygienic scent—that vanishes as you rinse. It tells you better than words how Lifebuoy safeguards. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

How Do You Pay Your Church Pledges Or Dues?

Your church needs your financial assistance in a prompt and businesslike manner. Your dues and pledges should be paid promptly, to enable your church to maintain a good paying habit record.

There are some people who carry memberships in a church, but fail to realize their financial responsibility—or don't want to, because they apparently are satisfied to have the others pay the preacher. Some folks take pride in being a member of a church, especially when their preacher has done something worthy of note or the members having built a beautiful new building. Do you want your neighbor to pay your church obligations?

The churches do not report to the Credit Exchange how people pay their pledges and dues. This space is not paid for by any church, but as the Credit Exchange is a civic institution working for the betterment of the community, we have cheerfully devoted this space to bring to your attention the need of prompt financial support to your church.

Upper left, hatchet with shield, crossed flag and the portrait of the Father of His Country; right, young George with the guilty hatchet that was used to cut down the cherry tree, also a section of the tree, all of which may be used to contain nuts or candy; below, two patriotic young gentlemen parading with flags on the handle of a long hatchet with nut cup tied with red, white and blue ribbon occupying the remainder of the hatchet handle.

Coast to Coast, Just Spin to Bluebird

FASTEST AIRMAN. The new automobile record of 245.730 miles per hour, set by Captain Campbell in his Bluebird racing car, at Daytona Beach, Fla., invites some interesting comparisons with other feats of quick moving. Capt. Frank Hawk's record of 12 and a half hours for the flight from Los Angeles to New York, a distance of 2,500 miles, works out as an average speed of 200 miles an hour. Were it possible for Campbell to follow the same route in his car he would cover the distance in 10 hours. Although Campbell's car is the fastest thing that ever travelled on the ground, it would appear slow in comparison with the seaplane of Squadron Leader Oriabar, of the English Schneider Cup team. Oriabar made a speed record, during last year's race, of 357.723 miles per hour — over 100 miles faster than the Bluebird.

High School News Writers Entered In State Contest

More Than Hundred Correspondents For Local Papers Enrolled In Contest

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Feb. 9.—More than one hundred high school correspondents for their local newspapers have entered the reporting contest being conducted by the department of journalism of the Pennsylvania State College, Franklin C. Banner, professor of journalism at the college, announced today. The contest is being sponsored by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association which provided four prizes, ranging from $25 to $10, for the winners. Five citations of merit also will be awarded. Entries for the contest close at the end of this week.

Active competition starts February 16 and closes May 1, Professor Banner said. Under the contest rules, the school reporter clips his contributions of school news which have been printed in his local newspaper, and which must total at least a column for the ten weeks. These clippings are submitted to the department of journalism of Penn State through the reporter's local editor. The material will be judged on its news value, importance to the school community, clarity of expression, and how well the story is covered.

The judges will be Professor Banner, Charles M. Meredith, publisher of the Quakertown Free Press and past president of the National Editorial Association; B. R. Gardner, editor of the Montrose Independent; Theodore Arter, Jr., general manager of the Altoona Tribune; and Gus M. Steinmetz, editor of the Harrisburg Telegraph.

State To Acquire All Toll Bridges

Bill Will Be Introduced Into Assembly Providing For Acquisition Of Bridges

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Feb. 9.—Setting up an Intra-State Bridge Commission, which will have for its purpose the acquisition by the state of all private toll bridges, a bill appropriating $3,000,000 as an original revolving fund for toll bridge acquisition will be introduced in the House this week by Rep. George N. Wade, Cumberland.

As forecast by International News Service last week, the measure will provide for operation of bridges so acquired as toll spans until all indebtedness upon them is paid off, when they would be made free bridges and maintained by the state. The Wade measure contemplates formation of a bridge commission to be made up of the Auditor General, State Treasurer, Secretary of Highways and two members to be named by the governor. Accompanying the bill will be a resolution providing for a survey by the state highway department of all toll bridges in the state and probable cost to the state if they should be taken over. The resolution specifies the departmental report be presented by Feb. 1, 1933.

Cleveland Police Baffled By Murder Of Night Watchman At Viaduct

(International News Service) CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 9.—Within a hundred yards of the scene of the activities of ten laborers digging foundations for a viaduct while two policemen looked on, Isaac Phillips, 54, a night watchman was slain by an unknown assailant whose deed provided Cleveland policemen with their second mystery as the week opened.

Phillips died in the City hospital where attaches said his skull had been fractured in four places by the heavy window weight which his attacker brought crashing down on his skull.

Police found no money in the victim's pockets. They learned that vagrants had often stolen the man's lunch while Phillips was occupied with his duties.

The victim was married and the father of one son.

Model Election Is Taking Place In Ellwood City Today

SCOUTS TO REIGN HERE ON THURSDAY

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 9.—The town is in a turmoil today; everybody is in a hurry; people are arguing and debating—who will be the new hand at the helm of city affairs?

Today the Boy Scouts of the city and the surrounding countryside are holding a "model election", in which a burgess, tax collector, school board, city council and other officials will be elected.

The Scouts have taken to this very seriously and the candidates have had cards printed which are distributed among the voters. All of the Boy Scouts in school today will cast their ballots for their choice, and every precaution has been taken.

Trinity Church To Hear Candidates

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 9.—Officials of the Trinity Lutheran church hope in a short period to be able to name the new pastor to succeed Rev. L. J. Baker, who has resigned to accept another position with Thiel College in Greenville. Definite steps have been taken to secure a new pastor.

A pulpit committee is at present investigating at the Pittsburgh Synod in Pittsburgh. Several prospects will be sent to the church to conduct the service and after the last has had his turn, one will be selected from the group. This procedure will require 6 weeks.

In the meantime other arrangements had been made to continue services. On Sunday Professor L. N. Naimberg occupied the pulpit.

Second Week Of Services Starts

Large Congregations At Union Evangelistic Services On Sunday

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 9.—Beginning the second week of the evangelistic campaign in the United Presbyterian church Sunday evening, 1500 people occupied every available space in the auditorium to hear the message of Rev. Dr. Luther K. Peacock. One of the finest services was conducted.

There had been special music arranged with all the combined choirs of the churches participating. Mrs. W. R. Thompson sang a solo and the Bell Memorial quartet also gave a selection. The congregation highly commended the efforts of each.

The quartet was composed of Harold Marshall, Floyd Duncan, Frank Blaine, and Earl Marshall.

A fine congregation had been present on Bell Memorial evening Saturday with special services arranged for them. The Bell Memorial quartet had sung on this occasion also.

Sunday was featured with two services in the afternoon and evening with Dr. Peacock speaking on both occasions.

Dr. Peacock proclaimed that America was too strenuously after that "dollar" to pay attention to the Church and Christ. We must stop this fast pace and get back to God in order to be saved. God knows, sees, and understands all and you will answer to Him on your judgment day. The doctor made an appeal to live the life of a Christian and die the life of a Christian.

The speaker asserted that there was forgiveness even for the blasphemous and murderer if he stoned and accepted Christ as his savior. It was God's purpose to send his son to save us. There was only one kind of sin that was not forgivable and that was blasphemy against the "Holy Spirit." Sinners must repent and accept Christ to be saved. Dr. Peacock told of the abuse the people were making of the "Seventh Day" which God had set aside to honor and respect Him. He made a plea that the Sabbath day be observed. The people have six days to do other things but Sunday should be observed as designated, its rest and prayer.

Says Emergency Lighting System Not Yet Approved

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 9.—R. K. Mattocks, secretary of the board of education on his return from Harrisburg, where he had been attending the annual educational convention, reports that the state department had failed to pass the emergency lighting system in the Lincoln Auditorium. The state department will not approve it until it is made satisfactory with the school district and the state.

The lights appear to work when there is an abundant water pressure, but when one of the fire plugs is turned on near the school or is being used within the lights, fail to function properly, it is said. What action the board of education will take against the installing company is not definite, but it will probably mean the withholding of further funds until the error is corrected.

League Leaders Win Saturday

Hot Mills And Specialty Teams Win In Shelby League Games

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 9.—With a fast passing attack the two leaders in the Shelby league, the Hot Mills and the Specialty departments battled their way to an easy win over the Mechanicals and Office in the Shelby auditorium Saturday night with a score of 34-20 and 37-23 respectively.

The result of these games still leave the two winners sharing honors for the first round in the league. It is the general opinion that it will remain so until the two great rivals meet again on the hardwood floor. The rivalry among the Hot Mills and the Specialty quints has almost grown to be bitter and the fans are always assured of a good game. The other two members of the league, the Office and Mechanicals can't seem to get started. Just a week previous they had caused an upset in the league by the former defeating the Hot Mills, thus paying the way for the Specialty tie up affair.

Then the latter had turned around and beat the Office, after their fine showing with the Hot Mills. And now on last Saturday both have been decisively beaten. The fast diversified attack of the Hot Mills had worked with exact precision in the first contest and had nearly swept the Mechanicals off their feet. The Hot Mills made up of ex-high school stars are a hard quintet to beat when really in a mood to play basket ball. The game was exciting in its younger moments, the Hot Mills managing to have a 5-3 lead in the first quarter and 10-5 at half-time. They were outscored in the ensuing period 10-5, but the Hot Mills still maintaining a 5 point lead score 20-15. Then in the final quarter Fitzgerald and Ursu broke loose in rapid succession and getting 5 baskets, the former 3 and the latter 2. Friedhoff and MacDonald had also scored from the court during the period, thus outscoring the Mechanicals 14-5 and the final score being 34-20 for the Hot Mills.

In the second game Gardner and Latrano simply had been running amuck before they were ejected to give the subs an opportunity. Each had accounted for 5 field goals. The Office could not keep these two in check in any manner. The Office was outscored in every period of the game and not once really threatened. At half-way the score was 16-9 for the Specialty. In the closing stanza the Office had made a vain scoring attempt, but alas it was too late. Still while accumulating markers for themselves their opponents were not inactive. The Specialty had outscored the Mechanicals 15-13 and the final score being 37-23 in favor of the Specialty.

Elder and Leyda were the outstanding performers for the losers.

Kraus Divorce Opinion Filed

Judge Chambers Finds In Favor Of Husband In Bitterly Contested Case

Lawrence J. Kraus of Ellwood City is granted a divorce from his wife, Bertha H. Kraus in a rather lengthy opinion handed down by Judge Jas. A. Chambers in Lawrence County court this morning. The couple was married in November 1924 and lived together until February, 1929.

Kraus applied for the divorce on the grounds of indignities. Several hearings were held before Judge Chambers at which numerous witnesses were examined. The evidence showed that following their marriage the couple went to live with Mr. Kraus's parents, until a new home was completed.

Trouble followed after they were in their new home. At the hearing it developed that Mrs. Kraus had interfered with her husband's business. She did not like Ellwood and Kraus went to Cleveland to look over the insurance field in that city. While he was away Mrs. Kraus went to her home in McKeesport, later coming after the household furniture in a truck.

Kraus, who had returned, tried to get her to remain, but she would not. It was claimed that while the furniture was being removed Mrs. Kraus had struck and knocked down her mother-in-law.

It also developed that Mrs. Kraus had started an action against Mr. Kraus' father and mother charging them with alienating the affections of their son. Judge Chambers finds that there was no evidence to substantiate this claim, that on the other hand, the elder Mr. and Mrs. Kraus, had done all they could to help the young couple. Judge Chambers holds that while there may have been some faults on both sides there is no question but that Mrs. Kraus was to blame and that the divorce should be granted.

ABE MARTIN

On Appealin' T' Husbands

A LONESOME WIFE TELEPHONIN' HER HUSBAND'S STOMACH
"Here we are doin' ev'rythin' in a new an' improved way. Us women are votin' an' holdin' good jobs an' gittin' along without a lot o' heavy petticoats an' are purty independent, 'cept a considerable number o' poor, misguided women still think that th' only way t' appeal t' a man in th'ir stomachs," declared Mrs. Em Moons today, at a lively meetin' o' "Th' Colonial Whist Club." "This crazy idee keeps women at home standin' over hot stoves an' scratchin' th'ir heads t' think up somethin' delicious fer th'ir husbands when they might be down town engaged in somethin' useful. Husbands hain't worryin' about how t' appeal t' th'ir wives! O' course an army travels on its stomach, an' so does a circus, an' so does everybuddy. We've all got t' eat, but t' say that us women would get kicked out if we didn't cook up a big mess fer our husbands every day is nonsense. Does anybody suppose a man would let a little thing like a cook interfere with his heart affairs when th' town's full o' places where he kin eat his head off fer forty-one or fifty-two cents a plate that includes pie or ice cream, too, along with spinach an' eggs? Jest look at th' lovin' couples that eat at th' New Palace cafe! Th' big hog of a man that goes home jest because his pale, whinin' wife is goin' t' have a guinea a la caserole hain't a fair example. We know husbands that might appeal t' th'ir wives by bringin' home a steak now an' then. Th' swell way, an' th' only way that's stood th' test o' centuries, t' appeal t' a man is t' be sweet an' amiable, an' if you happen t' be reasonably shapely it's all th' better. A man jest naturally gravitates t' where he's treated right, whether th'ers any food in sight or not. We've seen lots o' thin undernourished men optimists, an' we've met innumerable overfed male pessimists. We reckon th'ers lots o' poor tremblin' brides t' day tryin' t' study up somethin' grand t' cook fer big roughneck grooms that never spent over thirty cents fer lunches in th'ir lives. Th' average married woman has got enough t' think about without havin' t' rack her brain ever, day o'er her husband's stomach. It's awful to mix up a man's stomach with anything as dear an' sacred as th' home. Th'ers too many cheap, handy places t' eat these days fer a man t' pass up anything as scarce as a sweet amiable wife jest 'cause she won't cook."

Pete August To Box Sam Bruce

August Recently Fought Freeman And Holds Award Over Bruce

BRUCE MADE BIG HIT IN GARDEN

Sam Bruce, Buffalo and Pete August, Bridgeport, Conn., bitter rivals and ranked as two of the best welterweights in the east, will fling gloves in a 10-round bout next Monday night at Castle bowl, it was announced today.

Not so long ago Bruce made a big hit in Madison Square garden and August three days later fought Champion Tommy Freeman at Hot Springs. Reports from Hot Springs claim August should have received a draw.

The rivalry between Bruce and August is rather intense as August captured a 10-round award from Bruce when they met at Rochester. When Pete enters the ring here he will fight under Jimmie Dime's banner.

Midway vs. Frey
Joe Midway, conqueror of Nick Adams, will go to the ring again with Frankie Frey as his opponent. Since Joe's kayo of Nick, Frey has been anxious to give Midway a chance to see if he can duplicate the feat on him.

Several months ago they met in a smoker here and what Frankie did to Joe wasn't liked by Midway. Joe wasn't in the best of condition and Frey slammed him around the ring and Joe has the memory of an elephant.

Fans Want Battle
The fans have been anxious to see some of the heavier battles in action and as a result Bruce and August, prominent welterweights, were booked. The welterweight limit is 147 pounds. Both Bruce and August are punchers.

Bruce fights Bucky Lawless at Buffalo tonight and should be able to emerge without any broken digits. He will be back into training for a fight who will be brought here by Jimmie Dime to do his training.

Westminster Grad Officiates In Game Saturday

Bill Cleary Calls Fouls On His Alma Mater Players

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Feb. 9.—Back in 1926, William Cleary, Erie lad, was graduated from Westminster College after four years of sports versatility which won him letters in football, basketball, track, and baseball. Saturday night Cleary was umpire in the Westminster-Allegheny basketball game at Meadville. And this is how the peculiar situation came about:

Cleary was referee at the Allegheny-Erie DeMolay game at Erie last week. Coach "Dick" Baker of Allegheny liked his work and after the game was over asked him if he would officiate at the Westminster game Saturday night at Meadville. Cleary said he would be glad to do so, but added, "I am a graduate of Westminster." Baker said, "Oh, that's all right with me if it is with the Westminster officials."

So Cleary was umpire in the game Saturday, and he called seven of the 13 fouls called on the Titans during the evening. Brownlee, Hamas, Considine and Kocheran, fraternity brothers of Cleary in Kappa Phi Lambda, didn't appreciate some of the fouls, however. Kocheran, for instance, was put out of the game with four personals, and Cleary called three of them.

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY WILLIAM RITT

Central Press Sports Editor.

The pay off, in all sports, is in the winning punch.

This truth becomes more evident daily as certain games and sports continue to decline in public interest, because teams or individuals lack the punch.

Even the office boy knows that the winning punch, that crashing, irresistible blow the customers look for, is the only gesture in boxing that lets loose the flow of gold. And boxing, since Jack Dempsey's time, has sadly lacked the winning punch. Hence it's current decline.

When Dempsey was in the ring the spectators KNEW that he had the old winning punch and they expected to see it. And Jack, until he lost the world's heavyweight crown, always delivered. That's why he was the greatest drawing card the ring ever had and there may never be his equal again.

The winning punch, or rather the lack of it, explains why outside of Philadelphia, the Athletics, great ball club that they are, are not as popular as were the Yankees in their hey-day.

The Yanks packed the punch. Their "murderers' row" was a constant threat. The Yanks, regardless of the score up to that time, were apt to blast an opponent into disaster in one single inning by a tornado of roaring base hits. They did it again and again. Their winning punch gave them drama, dressed them in romantic colors and made them one of baseball's immortal aggregations.

Compared to those old Yanks, the A's are somewhat colorless though, probably just as good a team. Great as they were, the Yanks could not win three world titles in a row, a mark which the A's may set this year. But though the A's do just that thing, without the old colorful punch they are sure to be forgotten years hence before memory of those old dynamic Yankee fades.

Popularity of the Notre Dame football teams of the last two seasons was largely due to their winning punch. Twice in the closing minutes of two hard battles—the Northwestern and Army games—the Irish uncorked the winning punch last fall. And they did it several times the year before.

Football fans have come to look for that punch in Notre Dame games. And so far, the Irish have always delivered.

Big Bill Tilden is another example of great popularity founded on the winning punch. Big Bill delighted the crowds when in his hey-day by again and again coming from behind with a tremendous attack that swept his foe right off the court.

Last but not by far least, Bobby Jones was the greatest example of the winning punch in golf and he became the world's greatest golfer. He had the right stroke at the right time, when it was needed.

Harvey-Dundee Battle Friday

British Boxer To Get Chance To Reverse Only Setback In Ten Years

VINCE DUNDEE IS TOUGH SLUGGERS

By LES CONKLIN, International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Len Harvey, the British boxer who dropped his first start in the United States after having lost only one bout out of 350 in ten years of fighting abroad, will get a chance to reverse his sole American setback at Madison Square Garden on Friday night in a return twelve round bout with Vince Dundee.

That the Briton will make the most of his opportunity is indicated by the fact that local tin-horn gamblers have installed him as the early favorite at odds of 7 to 5.

Harvey twice dumped the swarthy New Jersey Italian on the canvas for counts of nine in the first round of their previous bout, but Vince refused to stay put. He scrambled off the floor and battled his way to a questionable decision.

Elimination Tourney
The bout will inaugurate the New York boxing commission's elimination tournament to determine a successor to Mickey Walker, whose midweight title has been vacated in this state. The winner of the tournament will gain but an empty honor. However, for the board practically admitted that Walker is the best 60-pounder in the world when it announced recently that he will be reinstated whenever he chooses to defend his crown here.

Harvey's unfamiliarity with American interpretation of the rules of the ring handicapped him in his first meeting with Dundee. Time and again he was warned by the referee for infraction of the regulations. Now that he is better acquainted with the American style of milling, and has had time in which to acclimate himself, he believes he will make a much better showing.

Dundee, however, believes along with Peggy Joyce that what has been done once can be accomplished again, and is confident of repeating his victory over the Briton. Vince has been working out at Summit, N. J., with Max Schmeling, who starts his southern tour tomorrow. Dundee has had more experience than the German in getting up off the floor, but in other departments of the game, Max was able to give him valuable pointers.

Another clever English fighter, Solly Schwartz, meets Tony Herrera, Mexico lightweight from El Paso, in Friday's semi-final. Herrera showed flashing speed and a good punch in his debut here, recently against the veteran Sammy Dorfman, although the bout was declared a draw.

RED DOGS-MAHONING

MEADVILLE, Pa., Feb. 9.—Coach "Dick" Baker's Allegheny College team, after being outplayed and outclassed in the first half, put on a second half rush which all but defeated Westminster here Saturday night, but the Titans rallied in the last few minutes of the game and won out by a 37-34 score to make two victories over the Methodists for the season.

The Titans, with a revised lineup, scored eight field goals and 11 out of 12 fouls in the first half for 27 points while Allegheny was tallying four field goals and eight out of 10 fouls for 16 points. So with an 11-point lead at half time, the game looked to be "on ice."

But Dick Baker told the Allegheny boys some fables and fairy stories about Jack and the Bean-Steak between halves, with the result that Kerr, Dennison, and Conn scored 13 points in 12 minutes of the second period while Westminster was held scoreless. Just as the Titans seemed master of the entire situation in the first half, so the Methodists were master during the second period.

In the first period, while Hamas and Siljaner playing forward for the Titans, Brownlee, and Rice did the tallying, Hamas and Siljaner were especially effective at getting the ball from the tip-off. Then Douglas replaced Siljaner, after six minutes had been played, and he was not in the game more than four minutes before he scored two field goals and two fouls. After 13 minutes of the first half, Kocheran replaced Hamas on the Titan team, and he immediately tallied two field goals and a foul.

In the second period, with Douglas, Kocheran, Brownlee, Rice and Fisher on the Titan lineup, Allegheny started a barrage on the baskets that netted 13 points in as many minutes. Kocheran was put out with four personal fouls as he fought hard to get the tip-off from center. Considine, who replaced Kocheran, tallied two field goals, Brownlee added two and Captain Rice tallied one in the closing minutes to clinch the victory.

Brownlee, with 12 points, was high scorer for the Titans, while Kerr and Dennison, with 11 and 10 points each, were high for the Bakermen.

The lineups:
Westminster F. G. F. T.
Hamas, F. .... 0 0-0 0

Douglas, F. .... 2 2-2 6
Kocheran, F. .... 2 1-3 5

Moynihan Sought By Coast College

University Of California Would Like To Get Notre Dame Line Coach

(International News Service)

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 9.—Bill Ingram, new football coach at the University of California, was reported today to be seeking Tim Moynihan, 1929 Notre Dame center, for the job of line coach at the Pacific coast school. Moynihan was an assistant to Knute Rockne here last year. They have a strong outfit.

The college mile relay, in which Notre Dame and Georgetown will hook up, with N. Y. U. also competing, is expected to develop into a real grudge battle. The South Bend Irish and the Hilltoppers are still "hot up" over the scrap Wilson and Vic Burke had in the garden, and Georgetown is anxious to turn the tables on the midwesterners.

French Champion To Race Tonight

Paul Keller, French 800-Meter Champion To Race Tonight

DR. PAUL MARTIN AWAY OFF FORM

By MICHAEL J. FOSTER, International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The second half of the French track threat goes into action tonight out in Newark when Paul Keller, 800-meter champion of France, toes the mark in the special 1,000-yard race which features the Seton Hall college games at the 113th regiment armory.

The first half of the Gaul invasion in the person of Seraphin Martin, world's record holder at 800 meters, proved somewhat of a fizzle on Saturday night in the Millrose games. Not only was he forced to take the dust of Russell Chapman in the "880", but Dale Letts of Chicago also managed to squeeze through to the tape before the record-holder finished.

Keller may do better. If he can keep his feet on the slippery armory floor—he has been having difficulty acclimating himself to short spikes and indoor tracks—he should give Dr. Paul Martin, the Swiss surgeon, and Phil Edwards, former N. Y. U. star, his chief rivals, a hard run for the third place laurels.

Dr. Martin is suffering from a bad cold and is nowhere near his best shape. Edwards, too, appears to be considerably off form, judging by the ease with which Alex Wilson and Eddie Roll led him to the tape in the Millrose "600".

McClafferty is Good.
Wilson's victory in the Millrose games and his fine anchor leg for Notre Dame in the one mile relay against Georgetown and Holy Cross make him the favorite to win the "Volgaire" "600". And that despite the fact that Bernie McClafferty will be one of his rivals.

The Canadian champion has a world of speed in those short, stocky legs of his. He ran Roll and Edwards into the ground at the garden, and when he was running for Notre Dame in the relay he made Victor Burke of Georgetown look slow in comparison as he sizzled around the Eighth avenue course to overcome Burke's lead and win the race with ease for the Irish.

The college mile relay, in which Notre Dame and Georgetown will hook up, with N. Y. U. also competing, is expected to develop into a real grudge battle. The South Bend Irish and the Hilltoppers are still "hot up" over the scrap Wilson and Vic Burke had in the garden, and Georgetown is anxious to turn the tables on the midwesterners.

Babe Ruth Goes South For Training Season

Mrs. Babe Ruth And Two Little Ruths Go South With Distinguished Slugger

In Past Few Weeks Ruth Has Lost Eleven Pounds — Now Weighs About 222

EDITOR'S NOTE.—Arthur A. McGovern, noted physical trainer, who has specialized in conditioning famous athletes, has written the following article on Babe Ruth especially for clients of International News Service.

By ARTHUR A. MCGOVERN
NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Babe Ruth accompanied by Mrs. Ruth and their two daughters, Dorothy and Julia, left New York Saturday for Jacksonville, Fla., from where they will motor to the Yankees training quarters in St. Petersburg.

The Sultan of Swat is in perfect physical condition and this is the result of a winter of active work. Since he finished his barnstorming in November 1930 he has spent most of his time in healthful pursuits. He has been on hunting and fishing trips, has played golf whenever the weather permitted, and just completed six weeks of intensive training in his gymnasium.

Takes Off Weight
When the Babe started training with me on December 22, 1930, he weighed 233 pounds. Today his weight is 222, a reduction of eleven pounds. The Ruthian waistline in December was 42½ inches as compared to 36 today. His hips measured 41 3/4 inches and these have been reduced to a mere 37. The Babe expects to play 36 holes of golf every day until the training season opens on March first, and when the baseball season begins he should be down to 216 pounds—his ideal weight.

But even more important than his superb physical condition is the great improvement in his mental attitude. I have supervised the Bambino's winter training for many years but I have never known him to enjoy such perfect mental health, and most of the credit for this goes to Mrs. Ruth.

Diet Is Watched
For the first time in several years the Babe has known the luxury of real home life. His chief diversions have been an occasional hockey match or a boxing show. His meals are home cooked and Mrs. Ruth, who has really been my chief assistant trainer, has kept an eagle eye on the Babe's diet. His meals are limited to two a day—late breakfast and an early dinner—and his foods consist chiefly of broiled lean meats, chicken or fish, with plenty of fresh vegetables and green salads, very little bread, and desserts which are only fruits or gelatin. He drinks no tea or coffee, but does take six glasses of milk or water every day. This is in marked contrast to the old days when the Bambino lived in hotels and was forced to eat all of his meals in restaurants where he indulged in foods that were neither properly prepared nor well balanced and fancy concoctions which were poisoning his system.

With this marked improvement in his physical and mental condition, Babe Ruth—barring accidents of course—should lead the league in home runs for 1931.

KEEPING IT HOT

Stove League Gossip

Less than a month remains before the old Hot Stove League disbands and the training camp exhibition season starts. When the big league clubs begin their tours and pre-season games is when the fuel that kept the Hot Stove simmering during the cold spell is revealed as fact or fancy.

Strangely enough this year, the exhibition game season opens with a continuation of last year's world series. To start their pennant repeating campaign the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals will clash in a series of three try-out tilts.

By winning all three the Cards can make their 1930-1931 score against the Athletics read five victories and four defeats. But the A's will still be world champions.

More important is the news that Chicago and Cleveland open their American league season at Cleveland with a possibility of Ted Lyons, Sox mound star, facing Wesley Ferrell, brilliant Indian hurler, in the opener.

And the Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates, close pennant rivals again this year, open the National league campaign together at Chicago in the initial day feature for the senior circuit.

Though the Lyons-Ferrell battle—if it comes to pass—will attract a great deal of attention, the American league's opening day feature will be the bout between Washington and Philadelphia at Washington. The Sens were the A's greatest competitor's last year and are expected to give Connie Mack plenty of trouble this season.

But most interesting of all—at least to this department—is what sluggers in both leagues may do or may not do against the new "dead er" ball, the opening day games being the new sphere's first real test.

Harrisburg Cops Are Alert Anyhow

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Feb. 9.—Alert policemen noticed an automobile, bearing Illinois license tags, parked at the curbing here, seven blow torches and an acetylene tank in the tonneau.
"Ha!" said the officers, "Bandits." They trailed the car when it was driven off.
And discovered that it belonged, as did its contents, to workmen re-lining a cheese vat at a dairy.

Government Owes Him Three Dollars

(International News Service)
ROCHESTER, Pa., Feb. 9.—The United States treasury department

owes Wilford Lemon of this city "three Spanish milled dollars"—according to its printed promise on a badly worn bill, found recently in the attic of his home here.
Most of the bill is indecipherable, but the portion stating the treasurer will turn over to the bearer the three dollars is plainly visible.
The bill was issued in accordance and "pursuant to an act of assembly passed May 4, 1778," it states.
Also unearthed with the bill was an elementary arithmetic text printed in 1830, which cited the census of Pittsburgh as of that year at 17,365 citizens.

Medical Officers Taking Course At Carlisle Barracks

(International News Service)
CARLISLE, Pa., Feb. 9.—Sixty-nine officers of the medical corps, United States army, two of the navy medical corps and one from the medical corps of the Cuban army are enrolled for training at the U. S. medical field service school here. They will complete their training May 1.

Most of the officers are young men who have recently completed professional courses and internships and have come here from the medical center at Washington for training designed to fit them for administrative duties with troops.
The course of instruction which they will undergo here is known as the "basic course" and includes work in sanitation, administration, veterinary service, military art, dental training and equitation. Final week of the course will be devoted to field work in camp on the national battlefield at Gettysburg.

One of the great problems of the poor is that of making ends meet while living as the rich do.

Plan Terminal For Air Service

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—Philadelphia will be designated the American terminal for the proposed dirigible passenger and freight line across the Atlantic from Germany, aviation officials of the local Chamber of Commerce believe.
According to present estimates the International Zeppelin Transportation Corporation will institute the transatlantic air line within the next two years.

SEEK FISH HATCHERY FOR CLINTON COUNTY

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Feb. 9.—Seeking to have a $100,000 fish hatchery, scheduled to be built somewhere in the 16th congressional district, located in Clinton county, sportsmen of Lycoming and Clinton counties have named a committee to work for selection of a Clinton county site.

New Earth Shocks Jar New Zealand

Estimate 1,000 Dead, 2,000 Injured In Quake Of Week Ago

(International News Service)
WELLINGTON N. Z. Feb. 9.—New earth shocks jarred the Hawke Bay section of North Island today, terrorizing the survivors of Tuesday's disastrous earthquakes and adding further to the property damage in the Napier, Hastings, Wairoa and Gisborne areas.

Further casualties were not reported, but walls and weakened buildings in the several towns crashed down, and at Napier part of a cliff slid off into the sea with a deafening roar.
The latest temblors heaved huge waves along the shore fronts forcing many homeless survivors encamped on beaches to flee inland. Communication lines erected within the past few days by relief squads were torn down. The epicentre of the shocks seemed to be at Napier. An airplane engaged in relief work crashed during one of the major shocks Sunday, and its three occupants were killed.
Estimates on Tuesday's earthquakes indicate that 1,000 were killed, 2,000 injured and 16,000 rendered homeless.

Hair Tonic Proves To Be Carbolic Acid

(International News Service)
HAGERSTOWN, Md., Feb. 9.—Charles Harvey, negro, has provided a new variation on the familiar story of accidents caused by reaching for the "wrong bottle" in the medicine cabinet.
Harvey was preparing to "step out" with a girl acquaintance here. His toilet was complete, all but his hair. Reaching into the cabinet, Harvey grasped a bottle of hair tonic, poured it over his head and massaged vigorously.
Some of the liquid ran down into his eye, burning violently. Harvey looked at the bottle, it was carbolic acid. One eye was burned and Harvey lost a considerable quantity of hair in the incident.

"You Will Benefit Public Health"

Says

DR. J. F. X. STACK

Health Commissioner, City of Hoboken, N. J.

... one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. Stack's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Dr. Stack writes: "I am heartily in favor of your campaign to better your industry by making it cleaner."

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it... Smoke Certified Cremo—a really wonderful smoke—mild—mellow—nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

American Cigar Company,
111 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

I have seen your advertising displays in the newspapers and on billboards, telling people about the harm spitting may cause and the dangers lurking in cigars when the tips are sealed with spit. Your efforts to teach the public and thus prevent suffering will do more than sell cigars. You will benefit public health, and for that reason I want to give my enthusiastic approval to your campaign.

As a health commissioner, I am interested in seeing information of this sort brought home to everybody. Human ills would be greatly lessened if every person knew what danger there is in spitting in public places and in using the tongue to seal or moisten anything in manufacturing. Your campaign is indeed a "crusade of decency" and my department wishes you success in your efforts.

You are welcome to use this letter in your plan of public education, if you wish, with the understanding that I am not publicly endorsing your product in preference to any other, but that I am heartily in favor of your campaign to better your industry by making it cleaner.

Very truly yours,
J. F. X. Stack, M.D.
Health Commissioner,
City of Hoboken, N. J.

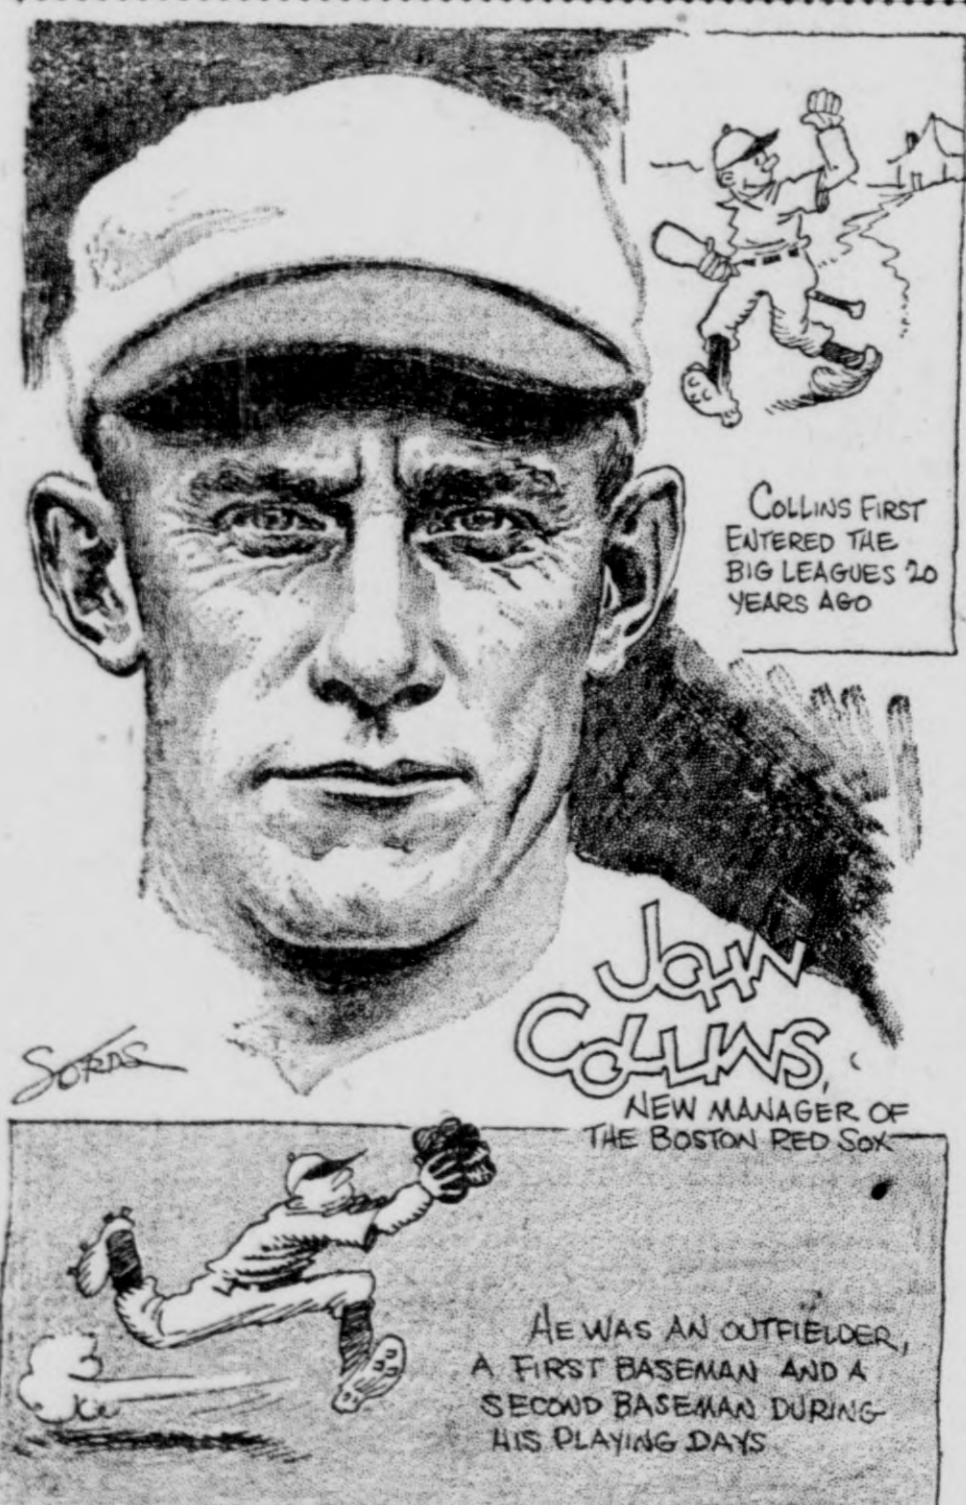

In this period of cold weather and cracked lips, above all insist on a cigar—free of the spit germ.

Certified Cremo

SORDS POINTS

Tough Chore Faces New Boston Boss

By JACK SORDS
Central Press Sports Cartoonist-Writer

Plenty of baseball experience—as player and as manager—will be brought to the Boston Red Sox this season by John (Shano) Collins, new pilot of the lowly Bean Town band.

Though this is Collins' freshman year as a major league pilot has had minor league managerial experience at Pittsfield in the Eastern league and Des Moines in the Western.

Shano was at Pittsfield from 1924 until 1926 when that team disbanded and he transferred his activities to the western front. For Des Moines, Collins produced a pennant winner, a runner-up and a fourth-place club, which is a pretty good three-season career, especially considering the fact that when Shano came to the Demons they were in last place.

Collins first entered the big leagues 20 years ago.
He was an outfielder, a first baseman and a second baseman during his playing days.

Big Contribution Swells Red Cross Relief Fund Here

Local Citizen Gives $200
Check For National Drought
Relief Assistance

As the result of a $200 contribution received this morning from a prominent local citizen, the Lawrence county quota to the National Red Cross drought relief fund was swelled considerably.
The local fund now totals $835, which, however, is but a small part of the 17,000 quota assigned by national headquarters.
An effort will be made to stimulate interest locally today by Mrs.

Pauline Gardescu of Pittsburgh, western Pennsylvania field worker for the national Red Cross, who will arrive for a conference with chapter officials.
The status of the fund follows:

Solves Troubles Of Honeymooners

Newlyweds Charter Airplane To Elude "Horse-Play" After Ceremony

(International News Service)
EASTON, Pa., Feb. 9.—For newlyweds who dread the thought of a conventional barrage of rice, confetti, old shoes and other marks of esteem and good wishes, the solution offered by Mr. and Mrs. Aloysius Smith may appeal.
The couple announced they would be married and would leave for Richmond, Va., immediately after the ceremony.
Their friends gathered at the train, armed with the traditional objects one hurls at newlyweds. But no bride and bridegroom appeared. The wedding party ran frantically along the train ramp, peering in windows, clambering into cars, but the bride and groom were missing.

Later, they disclosed that they had slipped away in an automobile after the ceremony, were driven to Bethlehem in a plane from a nearby airport and departed on their wedding trip unscathed.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—After a honeymoon limited to a day and a half, Amelia Earhart, the trans-Atlantic flier, and George Palmer Putnam, publisher and explorer, return to their respective jobs in New York today.
They were married quietly Saturday at the home of Putnam's mother, Mrs. Frances Putnam, in Noank, Conn.
Immediately after the wedding that was devoid of religious ceremony, the bride and bridegroom motored away to an unannounced destination.

Hope To Build Storage Houses For State Eggs

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Feb. 9.—Establishment of more egg storage plants in Pennsylvania, so that poultry dealers will be in a better position to compete with shipments of frozen broken eggs from other states, is hoped for soon by the state department of agriculture, Secretary John A. McSparran said here today.
The baking industry of the state, McSparran said, is using frozen eggs coming from other sections of the country largely because of a lack of facilities for retailing such goods in Pennsylvania. Records of the department of agriculture show that approximately 14 times as many eggs "out of shell" are held in cold storage annually in Pennsylvania as there were 15 years ago.

Bootleggers In Anthracite Coal Industry Found

(International News Service)
ASHLAND, Pa., Feb. 9.—"Bootlegging" of anthracite coal, on a large scale, has sprung up in the hard coal fields of Pennsylvania in the wake of the general depression which hit mine operators, according to colliery and railroad officials in this section.

Following complaints by coal-carrying railroads, state police halted several trucks carrying anthracite coal and found them to be overloaded—the excess loads being destined for "bootleg" dealers. A. J. Farrell, superintendent of the Shamokin division of the Reading railroad, estimated his line alone is losing $100,000 a month to truckers of anthracite. The truckers are able to undersell regular coal dealers within a 100-mile radius and have been carrying on a flourishing trade all winter.

Illegal Shooting Of Deer Revealed

(International News Service)
STROUDSBURG, Pa., Feb. 9.—"Jacklight hunting"—illegal shooting of deer at night with artificial lighting apparatus, has aroused residents and game officials of four Monroe county townships. Within the past few weeks, game protectors declared, more deer have fallen under the guns of "jacklighters" than were killed during the entire open season last fall.
It is believed some of the illegal hunters are using silencers on their guns, as deer have been dressed within 50 yards of farm houses where they were killed in several instances.

(International News Service)

Woman May Wield Whip In State

Woman Deputy Sheriff Willing To Flog Men, If Law
Is Enacted

(International News Service)
ALLENTOWN, Pa., Feb. 9.—If the whipping post is set up in Pennsylvania as a means of punishing minor crimes, as a possible by action of the legislature during the present session, offenders in Lehigh county may receive their "strips" from a sturdy young woman.
Miss Frances D. Harris, a deputy sheriff, expressed herself perfectly willing to administer a "dose of the cat," if necessary.

"I wouldn't hesitate to switch a criminal real hard," said she. "If I thought he deserved it there would be no reduction in the force of my blows. But if he wasn't such a bad criminal perhaps I'd go easy on him."
Under a bill now before the legislature, a whipping post would be set up in every county of the state. In addition to present punishment for minor crimes, offenders would be given from five to sixty lashes on the bared back.

Hoover Woships In Lincoln's Pew

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—In the church where Abraham Lincoln worshipped, President Hoover on Sunday heard a plea for a return of the faith and compassion characteristic of the Civil War executive.
Departing from his custom of attending the Friends Meeting House, President Hoover went to the New York Avenue Presbyterian church for its annual Lincoln birthday services.
Sitting in the pew where Lincoln worshipped, the president and Mrs. Hoover heard the pastor, Rev. Joseph Richard Sizoo, deplore decadence in spiritual, economic and moral realms and assert the "lost radiance of the world" might be returned through faith and compassion.
With Senator Heflin an ardent champion for him it begins to look terrible for General Smedley Butler.—The Boston Evening Transcript
